Liquor-Selling Feud Seen in Double Killing

ESTRANGED WIFE CLAIMS TWO MEN FORMER PARTNERS

Sam Aiken, Unemployed Painter, Kills Neighbor and Then Shoots Mate in Own Home.

FLEEING SLAYER FOUND IN WOODS

Prisoner Claims That He Shot Couple Because His Home Had Been Wrecked.

With Sam F. Aiken, 40, refusing to amplify his earlier statement that he shot and killed his 38-year-old wife and Boyce Hunter, 34, because his "home had been wrecked," or offering anything to strengthen his contention that he heard his wife and Hunter plotting to "put him away," the police Tuesday night turned to a possible liquor selling feud as the cause for the double killing though they admitted they had little to support this theory.

In one of a series of notes which Aiken gave his relatives following the shooting and preceding his capture not far from his home at 775 Cooper street where the murders took place Aiken declared he had "caught them in the act" and likewise he refused to add anything explanatory to this statement.

Widow Sees Liquor Feud. While Aiken was maintaining his original contention it was learned that Hunter was a married man and had been separated from his wife less than two weeks. The wife, Mary Schwartz Hunter, at her home, 987 Edgewood avenue, likewise voiced the opinion that her husband had been killed because of a liquor feud.

"Boyce and Sam Aiken used to be partners," Mrs. Hunter said Tuesday night. "I do not know if they have been 'dealing' together lately, however."

Hunter's wife added that if her husband ever was friendly with Aiken's wife she knew nothing of it.

"I knew pretty well everything that Boyce did," she said, "and if he was more than an acquaintance with Mrs. Aiken I do not know of it. However, it might have been so."

Police Not Satisfied. The police admitted they were far from satisfied with Aiken's story, saying that they were investigating widely circulated reports that Aiken and Hunter had had a "falling out" over liquor.

Chief of Police James L. Beavers Tuesday night in special orders to members of the department warned the force that too much shooting is being done by officers, particularly at liquor runners.

He stated that the pistols were to be used only in self-defense or in the defense of some one else's life and certainly not to be used in misdemeanor cases.

GEMS FOUND HERE AND YOUTH HELD IN TEXAS ROBBERY

Edward Eury, 20 years old, of Fort Worth, Texas, is being held at police headquarters on a technical charge of suspicion and the police say they have recovered from him two diamond rings, one valued at $10,000 and the other at $1,000, taken from the home of Amos G. Carter, multi-millionaire Texas cattleman and publisher of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram and Fort Worth Record.

Eury was arrested Tuesday night at the home of Russell Bennett, a musician, 29 Prescott street. His arrest was admitted having pawned a watch he received a telegram from Chief W. H. Lee, of the Fort Worth police. According to the detectives, Eury also admitted having pawned a watch he "picked up" at the Carter home.

Eury, according to the detectives, said he had called at the Carter home to see the publisher's niece and that when leaving he picked up the jewelry, believing it of little value. The larger ring contains a diamond weighing more than four carats and surrounded by a cluster of smaller stones.

MEMORIAL PLANS FOR YELLOW BIRD LANDING STARTED

Sanlader, Spain, June 18.—(AP)—A definite movement is on foot here to raise a monument to commemorate the landing of the Yellow Bird at Giambrès beach, near Comillas, this province, last Friday.

Fees Refused For Execution Of 2 Slayers

Men May Be Granted Reprieve Until Money Is Forthcoming.

Millidgeville, Ga., June 18.—(AP)—While Dave Brookins and John Rushing, a negro, are held in the death block at the state prison here expecting to forfeit their lives in the electric chair some time Friday, it is indicated tonight that the two men will not die as scheduled due to the fact that the county commissioners of Muscogee county, where the two men were condemned to death, have refused to pay their fees incidental to the electrocution.

Brookins was sentenced to death for killing his wife, and the negro was condemned to die for killing a negro. Both the men were sentenced over a year ago and new trials were denied them by the state supreme court. They were brought to the state prison this afternoon by J. A. Beards, sheriff of Muscogee county.

When the death verdict was upheld by the supreme court several days ago Judge B. H. Dunaway, superintendent of the prison, informed the county officials that the fee of $125 for each man would have to be forthcoming before the electrocution could take place. The fee is pro-rated as follows: The electrician receives $75, two prison doctors $10 each, and three wardens $10 each.

The Muscogee officials turned Judge Dunaway's letter over to Walker Reynolds, solicitor-general of the Chattahoochee circuit, who replied that after a study of the Georgia electrocution law, which was passed by the legislature of 1924, he was unable to find where the county was liable for the expenses incurred.

The law provides that the electrocution must be conducted by a competent electrician in the presence of two doctors. However, no provision is made for the payment of the electrician or doctors by either the state or county.

Refusal of the official to pay is based on this phase of the bill.

Judge Dunaway said that unless the funds were received from the county before the time set for the death of the two men they would be given a respite until the funds were provided.

NEW ANNEXATION VOTE THURSDAY

Proponents Believe City Will Take in Area Under Proposal To Be Submitted at Meeting.

Undaunted by the turn of the tide in Monday afternoon's session of council, advocates of annexation to Atlanta of certain adjacent areas Tuesday prepared to reinforce their lines and to make an even greater fight in the special session Thursday afternoon to extend the city limits.

Instead of submitting each parcel of proposed city territory separately as was done Monday, pro-annexationists will probably present the matter in one paper covering the entire subject, according to Alderman Ed A. Gilliam, chairman of the charter revision committee.

Monday's Mistake. Supporters of the proposed annexation were of the opinion that the mistake made Monday was in voting on each parcel separately, as the opponents of annexation did not gain a majority until after amendments striking certain sections had been passed. It was pointed out that the chief reason for the turn of the voting strength Monday was the alleged discriminations in striking some landlots and adopting others.

Following conferences Tuesday, Mr. Gilliam expressed confidence that the annexation proposal will win Thursday. Under a revised plan of annexation contemplated following Monday's session, the north side section will probably be extended so as to include territory a little beyond Buckhead, Mr. Gilliam said.

North Side Paving. Speaking of the argument advanced by anti-annexationists that Atlanta would have to do a great deal of street paving in the new sections in return for little increase in taxes, Mr. Gilliam pointed out that the north side contains more miles of paved road than perhaps any other section of the county, and that the north side is the biggest section proposed for annexation. Likewise, Druid Hills has a large number of fine paved roads, Mr. Gilliam said.

Supporters of the annexation plan declared that Druid Hills and the north side are developed along real metropolitan lines and are ripe for being added to the city.

Another meeting of the charter revision committee to prepare for Thursday's session of council will be held either this afternoon or Thursday morning, Mr. Gilliam said.

DRY ENFORCEMENT WILL BE PRESSED BY GOVERNMENT

Deaths Deplored and To Be Avoided If Possible, But There Will Be No Let-Up in Work.

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER, United News Staff Correspondent.

Washington, June 18.—The government's attitude toward prohibition enforcement, as revealed today under pressure of protests regarding fatal shootings, is that taking of life is deplored and to be avoided if humanly possible but that efforts to suppress liquor traffic must go forward.

President Hoover, in answer to inquiries from the press today, said he deplored the taking of life but he urged citizens on the border to assist the government in efforts to suppress international law violators, to whom he traces current enforcement troubles.

Assistant Secretary of Treasury Lowman rejected suggestions that federal agents be disarmed to prevent fatalities, saying that professional liquor violators were desperate men and that the government could not leave its officers without means of self-defense.

The senate turned to the diplomatic liquor situation today by adopting a resolution by Caraway, Democrat, Arkansas, calling upon Washington police authorities for a list of diplomats who had been arrested or warned for driving while drunk. The request was the outgrowth of an episode involving a member of the Turkish embassy staff.

While telegrams of protest regarding recent shootings were said to outnumber those which sustained government officers, the administration received new assurances of support in its enforcement program today. The general assembly of the Presbyterian Church at Philadelphia appointed a "national loyalty commission" to call on the president and give him the moral support of the Presbyterian Church. In a message to the annual Baptist convention adopted a resolution commending President Hoover's efforts toward law enforcement.

Following is the official text of the president's statement, which was Continued on Page 6, Column 6.

White Man, Negro Held in Servitude On Farm, Charge

W. D. Arnold, Sr., Webster County Planter, Indicted on Two Peonage Counts; $10,000 Bond.

Gray Hero Dies

Macon, Ga., June 18.—(AP)—W. D. Arnold, Sr., operator of a 15-horse farm in Webster county, is being held under bond of $10,000 in Americus, Ga., on a federal warrant charging peonage, while a white man and four negroes, alleged to be the peons, are being held in jail as material witnesses, it was learned here today.

Although Arnold is charged only with holding in servitude the white man, Claude King, and a negro, John Vanover, three other negroes in the Clarke county jail are said to have worked on the Arnold farm. The three, Tuck Bronner, Jordan Haywood, and Joe Howard, will testify at an early trial, court officials here said. A special session of court in the Americus division of the middle district probably will be held early in July, it was said.

Arnold was indicted on the two charges by a federal grand jury in the Athens division of court two weeks ago. They were not made public until the arrest. For two weeks, it was said, Arnold had been in hiding. Late Monday afternoon Deputy U. S. Marshal E. C. Hinson went to the man's home, near Plains, Ga., and found him, it was reported. Arnold said he was ill, and had been forced to take to his bed. Bond was fixed at his residence.

It was a month ago, according to Assistant U. S. Attorney A. E. Smith here, that Vanover came to Macon on a Webster county warrant and reported that he had been severely beaten by Arnold. The negro said it was only the "last time" he had been whipped and whipped. He said Arnold had threatened his life if he dared tell any one of the whipping, and the negro withheld the information even from his wife. Mr. Smith said the negro's body indicated a severe lashing.

One of the indictments charges Arnold with holding Vanover from December 25, last year. The other charges him with holding King from March 5, last year.

The two indictments worded the same with the exception of dates and names, charge Arnold specifically with "unlawfully, wilfully, and knowingly" holding (Claude King and John Vanover) to a condition of peonage by force and arms and threats of bodily injury, and that the said Arnold did and caused to be done by him, his agents and servants, the said King and Vanover against their will to perform manual labor on the said Arnold's farm to work out an alleged debt."

General David B. Freeman, 77, a commander of the Georgia division of the United Confederate Veterans, died late Tuesday afternoon at his home, 759 Marietta place, following a brief illness. General Freeman recently had returned to his home from the Confederate reunion in Charlotte, N. C., and for the past three days had suffered from heart trouble. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

General Freeman had the distinction of being the youngest private in the War Between the States in the ranks of the Confederacy. He enlisted in the service at the age of 11 and, being too young to shoulder a rifle, he was given the title of a "marker," which meant that he was errand boy and general "handy boy" for the regiment. After serving in this capacity for 18 months he was enrolled in the Sixth Georgia cavalry, under General Wheeler, where he served throughout the war with honors.

Upon being discharged, after the surrender at Appomattox, Va., he returned to Cedarhurst, where he operated a country weekly newspaper for approximately 10 years. He sold out his Cedarhurst interests and established a paper at Marietta, and operated that paper for 35 years, retiring from active business life about 10 years ago. During the past 10 years he had made his home in Atlanta. He was a native of Ellijay.

General Freeman was one of the best known and most active workers in the ranks of the veterans and had served as commander of the Georgia division for the past four years. He was re-elected commander at the convention last fall in Griffin, despite the fact that he was ill at his home and unable to be present. His present term would have expired this fall.

He had written many articles for yearbooks and souvenirs of the Old Soldiers Home, one of his most interesting articles being carried in a yearbook published last year.

He is survived by two sons, Clifford A. Freeman, of Atlanta, and Robert Freeman of Lakeland, a niece, Mrs. Annie Freeman Lacosta, of Little Rock, Ark., and several grandchildren.

U. S. AMBASSADOR SOUNDS KEYNOTE FOR WORLD PEACE

Envoy Dawes Speaks in London While Premier MacDonald Addresses Audience in Scotland.

VIEWS OF NATIONS GIVEN TO WORLD

Dawes Would Have Powers Join in Concerted Peace Move, Ending Unproductive Expense.

London, June 18.—(AP)—Premier MacDonald, speaking from his retreat in Scotland, and Ambassador Dawes, addressing the Pilgrims' dinner in London, tonight sounded simultaneous calls for world peace and concord with special reference to the relations between the United States and Great Britain.

The British prime minister spoke in general terms of the historic meeting which he had with General Dawes on Sunday, declaring that its purpose was looking toward the hope that it might be instrumental in "preparing a board around which other nations might ultimately sit in co-operative friendship studying the arts and ways of peace."

General Dawes dealt more specifically with the problem of naval reduction, declaring that "an early agreement on naval reduction by nations is of outstanding importance at the present time."

"My theme," he said, "is what method of procedure had best be adopted to translate a policy of naval reduction into a fixed agreement between the nations—a step so important to the peace of the world and the happiness hereafter of mankind."

After a long comparison of the work of the economic experts and statesmen in the reparations conferences and statesmen in disarmament conferences, Mr. Dawes concluded that upon the statesmen "lies the duty of peace-making, and in these negotiations he must hold the initiative."

He declared that "economic and technical problems are one thing—governmental and political problems are another."

"From naval experts Ambassador Dawes sought a yardstick with which to determine the military value of individual ships."

"I will say frankly that from a commission of naval experts meeting together and called to evolve a final definition of the naval yardstick, I personally should expect a failure to agree."

"The inevitable compromise between these differing definitions which will be expressed in the final fixation of the naval yardstick should be made by a committee of experts."

DePriest Musical Blamed For Prompt Action Taken In Early Recess of Congress

Republicans, Invited To Attend Mixed Affair, Found Easiest Way Out by Adjournment.

BY GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.
Washington, June 18.—J. J. Mills, president of the Georgia Farmers' Union, was telling the world of democracy about the national capital today that Hoovercrats are scarce as guinea fow in the south since the official tea at the White House last week when the wife of Oscar DePriest, negro congressman from Illinois, was one of the guests of honor. "With one full sweep," said Mr. Mills, "President Hoover wiped out all the sentiment expressed for him in the south during the last national election. He sent the so-called Hoovercrats scurrying back to their traditional democratic fold. This social equality stuff doesn't go far with southern democrats. Inviting the negro wife of a negro congressman to the White House to have tea with Mrs. Hoover and wives of government officials and other members of congress is quite a bit too much. The Hoovercrats have learned their lesson."

Negro Going Too Far.
"The negro is all right in his way, but that's going too far. It doesn't matter particularly that DePriest has been indicted for a variety of frauds and corruption by grand juries in Chicago," Mills was here attending a meeting of commissioners of agriculture from 12 southern states. Incidental to the general rumormongering by the now famous White House tea, rumors and reports about the capital have it that congress was largely guided by the Hoover party in passing the resolution calling for a recess beginning Wednesday.

Congressman DePriest has invited all republican members of congress to attend a mixed white and colored gathering at the Washington auditorium Friday night under auspices of the National Association for the Advancement of the Colored People. More specifically, the purpose is to raise $200,000.

Rather than attend the colored benefit, republicans in congress were willing to expedite action on the pending resolution of adjournment, according to the reports. To some of them it would have been highly embarrassing to be in Washington and not go to the out-of-town. The best and most effective out-of-town excuse was to have the much-discussed recess begin before the party opened.

Rush to Escape.
Thus the rush to get away. When the party begins Friday night it is expected that many a last minute destination will be in evidence. Congress has recessed for two months or thereabouts two nights previous, why should republicans adjourn over to attend a negro benefit. At least that will be the motif of excuses offered.

Soon after the Washington musical given by the negro congressman he will leave on a tour of several cities where he will expound his theories on social equality. He is billed for Chattanooga and Knoxville. It is not likely his visit at this time will be extended to Mississippi, Alabama or Georgia. He will swing back east for a tour of several cities after his Chattanooga and Knoxville engagements, it is understood.

Protests Steady.
Although telegrams and letters of protest have come to the White House in steady flow since the publication of many of the DePriest tea party, no statement has been forthcoming from that source except the brief one explaining that Mrs. DePriest was merely invited as were many other congressmen's wives. At the regular White House conference with the correspondents today, the DePriest incident was not mentioned, although there were rumors that several questions about the affair had been dropped in the presidential question box. It is the custom to submit in written form questions before the conference and it is optional with the executive whether he makes response when he meets the newspaper boys. Today the conference took other lines. It does not appear that there will be any further statement from the White House. The question has been raised whether the president or members of his family will attend the affair at the auditorium given by DePriest Friday evening. No one has any authoritative information on this phase of the situation. Members of congress are now recalling that it was Representative Jeff Busby, of Mississippi, who on March 2, two days before the new regime was inaugurated, called attention to some of the disquieting incidents of the DePriest entry into congressional life.

At that time, Representative Busby said: "For the first time in the history of this country you have succeeded in electing a member of the house from the north from the colored race to augment numbers on that side. I quote this from the Louisville Courier-Journal of February 11, 1929. On that date we find this man making a speech there: 'Oscar DePriest, negro congressman from the first Illinois district addressed the meeting at the Jones temple Sunday afternoon, under the auspices of the Louisville branch of the National Association for Advancement of Colored People.'

"In that speech he said this: 'I represent a wet district in Chicago and I will vote wet like the people

I represent. I consider it far more important to protect human lives and liberties than to deny a man a glass of beer.'"

"DePriest said also that he was irrevocably opposed to the segregation of the negro in any form, especially through Jim Crow cars on the railroad and separate schools."

"Our race," he said, "has been too submissive and we have allowed our liberties to be taken from us without protest. The black people of Kentucky will never succeed until they have learned to stand by each other. I will be glad when Louisville sends a negro representative to the Kentucky legislature."

"Now," continued Representative Busby, on that occasion, "I am going into this thing without any gloves on, which you do not do on that side of the aisle. When I find you inviting the colored race into your homes, to associate with your wives and your daughters and when you encourage the colored people to call on and keep company with you and your family, I will realize that you have reached that sentiment that you have expressed to them about election times."

Have to Save Them.
"In addition to this, I have had republican members of congress say to me, 'Why, you fellows down south have got to save us from this situation,' referring to the fact that the negroes were getting so strong in Chicago and other parts of the north that they were putting whites out of congress."

"I said: 'What situation?' They replied: 'From these negro congressmen we are getting in over here,' and I said: 'Save yourselves. You have been fishing for them all the while and getting nibbles. Now you are beginning to catch them. Take care of yourselves.'"

Mr. Busby's remarks arose out of the fact that republican members of the rules committee had attempted to withhold from him an office he had filed on, occupied by a retiring member in order to give it to the negro, DePriest, although the Mississippiian had been in congress six years longer and seniority is supposed to govern in such matters.

Georgia Rhododendron Queen Enmeshed in Gaiety of Court

MISS GERTMAN FETED AT ASHEVILLE

Asheville, N. C., June 18.—(Special.)—The center of a whirl of social activities, incident to her participation in the annual presentation at the court of the king and queen of Rhododendron, Miss Marian Gertman, Georgia queen, has been feted and entertained through every hour of the two days she has spent in Asheville.

In the huge parade of the festival which was held Tuesday morning the Georgia sponsor appeared in a decorated car specially prepared for her by the Georgia State Society. She was a center of attraction for the thousands of spectators who witnessed the huge procession.

In the big stone room of Grove Park Inn Monday night, Miss Gertman, together with sister sponsors from 12 southern states, was presented to the king and queen, immediately following the coronation ceremonies. In this event Miss Gertman wore formal evening dress. In the pageant of states June 22 she will be continued to represent the state flower of Georgia.

Together with other state sponsors and the members of the court, Miss Gertman was entertained Tuesday afternoon at the famous Vanderbilt mansion as the guest of Cornelia Vanderbilt Cecil. The Georgia representative stated that her stay in Asheville has thus far been one round of pleasure.

Plans for her entertainment Wednesday include a theater party, a buffet supper and a ball in addition to the regular schedule of festival events in which she plays a principal part as member of the court.

There has been much opposition in Japan to ratification of the Slice anti-war treaty on the ground that the clause, "The high contracting parties solemnly declare in the names of their respective peoples, etc., in Article 1 infringes upon the position of the emperor, who may sign in his own name and not of his people."

The cabinet interpretation of the disputed clause was contrivance to make it meaningless in the sense to which the Japanese opposition objected.

LINDY WILL ATTEND SAFE AIRCRAFT TESTS

Colonel To Quit Honeymoon
To Be Present at Mitchell Field.

New York, June 18.—(AP)—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh will come out of his honeymoon retirement tomorrow to be present at Mitchell field at the first flight tests for the $150,000 prizes for safe aircraft, offered by the Daniel Guggenheim fund for the promotion of aeronautics.

Announcement to this effect was made today by Harry Guggenheim, president of the fund, who said Colonel Lindbergh would be present as a trustee and advisor of the fund. Guggenheim did not disclose the present whereabouts of the colonel and his bride, the former Anne Spencer Morrow, nor did he say whether Mrs. Lindbergh would be at the field.

The first of the ships entered by 12 American and foreign designers to be tested will be the Brunner-Winkle Bird biplane in which Ellnor Smith made her early endurance flights. A capital prize of $100,000 will be given the winner and other awards will be presented runners-up in the competition. Entries will be received until October 1, when the tests end.

A "foot-proof" plane is to be sought through the tests. Requirements of the competition include level flight at a speed not greater than 35 miles an hour; ability to glide three minutes with engine shut off at 28 miles an hour; a landing within a 100 foot space; a 300 foot takeoff; a variable speed in normal flight of 45 to 100 miles an hour; ability of the plane to fly "hands off," and ability to gain an altitude of 25 feet within 500 feet of point of starting the take-off.

NAVAL REDUCTION STRESSED BY DAWES

statements of the nations, reinforced from the beginning by these expressions of abstract naval opinion, and able again to seek further naval advice.

"These statements should further be the ones to draw up for the world the terms of the final agreement upon naval reduction, which should be couched in those simple terms understandable to the ordinary man on the street, which, while the pet aversion of the casuist, are the highest expression of true statesmanship."

"The committee from the governments which met at Geneva to agree upon naval disarmament was a mixture of statesmen and naval technicians, and in my judgment that was the reason for its failure."

The speech of Ambassador Dawes was as follows: "We are in a period when mankind, emerged from its greatest calamity—the World War—is lifting its eyes from the darkness of the past toward the sunlight of international peace and tranquility. It is the era of effort for world construction—moral and material."

"The Kellogg Peace Treaty, which is the agreed upon of a treaty intention, has one of its first effects in a pronounced change in the form of international discussion of the world's peace."

The closing of the discussion upon the form of the expression of the principle and the inception of the practical methods which make it effective, prove the existence of the general determination to make the treaty not a mere gesture, but a foundation of an era of peace on earth and good will toward men."

"The matter of first importance at the present time is that the friends of the world's peace move unitedly toward that objective with a clear understanding among themselves that any effort which is not an united effort is liable to be ineffective and tend toward disintegration."

"To avoid confusion and delay endangering their common objective, they now should not only unitedly consider what steps should be taken toward it, but the order in which those steps are to be taken."

"The importance of an early agreement on naval reduction by nations is of outstanding importance at the present time and it would seem to be the next step to be taken toward world peace."

"As to any other controverted questions between any nations, or between Great Britain and the United States, their future peaceful settlement, either way, will not be endangered by the cessation of an enormously expensive naval competition in progress during their discussion."

"Congress has already by law committed the United States to an immediate naval program involving over $250,000,000, giving, however, to the president the power to suspend it in the event of an international agreement for the limitation of naval armaments."

"On May 31 last, the secretary of state of the United States said: 'I have in my possession a memorandum from the director of the budget showing the cost of the program recommended by the navy department in case the policy of naval reduction which the president advocated is not adopted. That memorandum shows that the authorized and contemplated naval program from the construction of new ships alone, amount to $1,700,000,000. When we bear in mind that the foregoing figures involve the construction program of only one nation, and that if it proceeds other nations will be impelled to follow suit, the burden of unproductive expenditure which will be imposed upon the economic world during the next 15 years can to a certain extent be realized."

"My address tonight concerns itself with suggestions as to a change in method for future negotiations for naval disarmament."

"Agreement upon a method of negotiation must concern, from the very beginning, all interested naval powers and should have not a partial but a universal sanction. While in the course of the discussion I may refer to the principle of equality of naval power as between Great Britain and the United States, it is only because the outcome of previous conferences shows that this is the agreed policy of both governments."

"There is, in what measure of procedure had best be adopted to translate a policy of naval reduction into a fixed agreement between the nations, a step so important to the peace of the world and the happiness hereafter of mankind."

"Edmund Burke in his observations on the late publication on the present state of the nation once made a profound remark about politics which could have made with equal truth of the government of the world. He said: 'Politics is the art of making the best of a bad situation.'"

"And thus it was with the world-important report of the second committee of experts just completed. It was their desire to have constructive international agreements relating to the method under which their work is to be done, whoever may do it, shall be adjusted with the laws of human nature."

"As a result, when the report of the first committee of experts was delivered to the statesmen of the London conference, the latter found it unnecessary to change the plan but only to supplement it by collateral international agreements relating to the method under which their work is to be done, whoever may do it, shall be adjusted with the laws of human nature."

"And thus it was with the world-important report of the second committee of experts just completed. It was their desire to have constructive international agreements relating to the method under which their work is to be done, whoever may do it, shall be adjusted with the laws of human nature."

"The long time which elapsed after the ending of the great war before a proper method of negotiation for reparations settlements was evolved, was because the first method was adjusted to human reasoning and not to human nature. That was to have the reparations settlement prepared by the continuing and concurrent work of economic experts and statesmen combined."

"Since the reparations settlement involved, in each one of the nations interested, both an economic and a political problem, it was reasonable to suppose that it would be best determined by the joint effort of statesmen and economists working together."

"This future effort continued so long before its abandonment that all Europe was brought to the brink of economic and political chaos, and then only, in the latter part of 1922, did the reparations commission as an experiment, decide upon the separate formation of the first committee of experts."

"This expedition, viewed at that time as almost hopeless by most economists and entirely so by all politicians—then designated by the reparations commission as the 'prescription of a pill for an earthquake'—proved successful."

"Triumph of Despair. The formation of that committee was not a triumph of intellect, it was a triumph of despair. It was adopted because nothing else had worked. Its success was due to its unconscious, but proper adjustment to the law of human nature."

"What happened thereafter demonstrated that by accident the world had discovered that the proper method of settling an international problem, involving a separate economic and political problem in each country, was to have independent experts working together, their formula then to be handed over to statesmen who, reinforced by the general public confidence in the impartiality of expert opinion, would better bring the respective public sentiments into acceptance of the necessary wording of the compromise between political expediency and economic principles."

"In committees formerly composed of collaborating statesmen and economists, the economists had always stood rigidly for conclusions endangering the statesmen and the acceptance of the plan, and the states for conclusions which would stultify the economists and endanger the success of the plan."

"Under such circumstances the arrival of a constructive compromise was well nigh impossible. The method was not adjusted to the law of human nature."

"Problems of Government. Economic and technical problems are one thing—governmental and political problems are another."

"The rigid attitude and determinations of international economic and technical specialists, as to the inviolability and sacredness of technical principle, is perhaps praiseworthy, but we must remember that these expressions are always incident to a doubtful embodiment of them in a personal interpretation of their applicability to international political situations, of which experts are not always constant diagnosticians."

"One who is inclined to believe that economists and technicians, claiming to be guided in their intellectual voyages by the stars and compasses and high lighthouses of fixed principles, never compromise, as do the alleged unworthy politicians, is lacking in experience in international economic negotiations."

"For six years after the war the unhappy reparations commission, besides its other misfortunes, was surrounded by an army of economic experts representing different nations interested in the problem. These experts delivered innumerable written ultimatums as to the correct economic principles which underlay their divergent recommendations, which filled vast untouchable libraries and moulder in their unutilized dust."

"The disagreements of these experts with each other, swearing devotion to infallible principles, were as complete and overwhelming as those which characterized the deliberations of supposedly less worthy, entirely confused, but fully as determined politicians and statesmen."

"Protests From Outside. I remember during the last two weeks of deliberation on the part of the first committee of experts appointed by the reparations commission that, as the inside expert committee was laboring with the formulation of its conclusions, almost all of them more or less the result of a compromise, they faced a snowstorm of protesting papers filled with voluminous, but disagreeing advice of outside experts removed from the field of negotiations."

"What I have said has a most direct bearing upon the question of the method of conducting the great negotiations for naval disarmament soon, justly to occupy the attention of the world."

"The question is how best to adjust the methods of negotiation to accord with the laws of human nature so that a successful outcome vital to the welfare of the world may not be unnecessarily endangered."

"International naval reduction is a task, the successful accomplishment of which requires co-operative employment of two distinctly unrelated talents—that of naval technical experts and of statesmen."

"Important as is a preliminary expert examination of economic and political factors, it is even more important where naval technicians and statesmen confront a problem involving both a technical and a political phase."

"Law of Human Nature. But here we must keep in mind the law of human nature. In the case of a preliminary use of economic experts, their prime objection is a formula which will recognize the dominance of economic law, and the success of a statesman in reaching the second objective of accommodating the expert formula to the political conditions of the respective countries is something as much desired by the economic experts as by the statesmen themselves."

"That later achievement will only crown with success the preliminary expert effort. This attitude has recently been twice demonstrated. So anxious was the first economic committee of experts, the reparations commission in 1924, that their report should be the basis of a successful settlement that they were engaged continually during their work in adjusting the form of their statement to the expected political repercussions."

"It was their constant endeavor to frame their conclusions in such language as would make them easily understood and be as inoffensive to a political standpoint as was possible. This desire to have constructive international agreements relating to the method under which their work is to be done, whoever may do it, shall be adjusted with the laws of human nature."

"Will Not Invite Peril. If the experts rise to a proper sense of their responsibility, the use by statesmen of their yardstick will not be one which will invite from those extreme pacifists and extreme militarists who form the 'lunatic fringe.'"

"But in the case of naval technical experts working for a formula for naval equality, the law of human nature runs contrary to such an attitude."

"It would be vastly more difficult, other things being equal, for a mixed commission of naval technicians and statesmen to agree on a plan for naval disarmament than for a mixed commission of economists and statesmen to agree upon a reparations settlement."

"A naval expert is qualified to define accurately the principles which should determine abstract naval equality. But the law of human nature decrees that his opinion is relatively not as safe in a program which he formulates as a practical interpretation of these principles applied to a partial destruction of his own navy."

"The proper pride of a naval officer is his navy. His whole professional career impels him to think of a navy only in terms of victory. He not only instinctively feels, but he is rightly taught to feel, that he must strive not for equal navies, but for a superior navy."

"It is difficult for him to forget that with a superior navy, victory is probable—with an equal navy, doubtful; with an inferior navy, almost hopeless."

"Other things being equal, I fear no naval officer inherently favors equality, the naval officer has his duty to perform to his state, and it is primarily to secure it against attack. He therefore trusts to his ships and his armament."

"Duty of Statesman. It is the duty of the statesman to remove from his state the danger of attack."

"Upon the latter primarily lies the duty of peace-making, and in these negotiations he must hold the initiative. He is the one to build up the new order and to start the new policy, guided as he goes by the advice of these competent and patriotic naval experts who serve him."

"What differences there are in their respective duties can be coordinated into a policy of statesmanship, and that alone is what I have in mind in what I now say. I have no knowledge of the qualifications and records of any naval officers heretofore engaged in these negotiations, or acquaintance with them. I am concerned only that the method under which their work is to be done, whoever may do it, shall be adjusted with the laws of human nature."

"At the beginning of the work, the contribution of the naval experts to the problem should be a definition of abstract equality. It is certainly possible to naval experts to arrive at a definition of the equality of the fighting strength of ships. Thus, for instance, one might find a yardstick of the equality of those whom we have value of individual ships. These ships might differ in displacement, size of guns, age, speed and other characteristics, and yet such an agreed properly weighted value might be given to each of these different characteristics as to make it possible to compare, for example, the cruiser fleets or combined fleets of the two navies, and establish a parity between them."

"If the experts rise to a proper sense of their responsibility, the use by statesmen of their yardstick will not be one which will invite from those extreme pacifists and extreme militarists who form the 'lunatic fringe.'"

"But again, in connection with the method of preparing the naval yardstick, let us consider the law of human nature. Should a commission composed of the representatives of each navy concerned meet to reach an agreement upon this yardstick. They would be asked to agree upon something, the use of which will reduce in number the idols of their hearts—the ships of their navies. I have already spoken of the use of naval officers when speaking of the law of human nature which subconsciously influences actions of all mankind, whether or not they are good or bad, rich or poor, skilled or unskilled, great or humble, old or young, of every race and nationality of the world. I have already spoken of the fallibility and the lack of agreement of expert and economic opinion as exemplified by the experience of the reparations negotiations. I will say frankly that from a commission of naval experts of the respective navies meeting together and called to evolve a final definition of the naval yardstick, I personally should expect a failure to agree. It would seem that to adjust to human nature the method of arriving at naval reduction, each government might separately obtain from their respective naval experts their definition of the yardstick and then the inevitable compromise between these differing definitions, which will be expressed in the final fixation of the technical yardstick, should be made by a committee of statesmen of the nations, reinforced from the beginning by these separate expressions of abstract technical naval opinion and able again to seek further advice if necessary before the final fixation. These statements should further be the ones to draw up for the world the terms of the final agreement upon naval reduction which should be couched in those simple terms understandable to the ordinary man on the street, which, while the pet aversion of the casuist, are the highest expression of true statesmanship. That final agreement, covering the quantitative dispositions, will go to the nations for approval or rejection."

"If this should be the outcome, let those entrusted with the last draft of the conclusions of the last conference be men born with the faculty of clear and concise statements, for that document must appeal to the composite will of the peoples of the nations, and in order to make a proper appeal it must be read generally and understood. There again we remember the operations of the law of human nature, and we hope that in these men the temptation to show erudition will be subordinated to writing that which, while properly covering the cause, may be understood by their audience. A clear statement of the case, understandable by all, should mean success."

"And here let me anticipate possible comments of those whom we have always with us on both sides of the ocean—the social purveyors of the trivial in international discussion who talk so continually about good relations and do so little to forward them. In all I have said tonight I intend nothing in derogation of the absolute necessity for consideration and presentation of the naval side of this question by its ablest experts the world over, and, on the other hand, nothing in derogation of the absolute necessity of bringing to the political side of it the highest qualities of statesmanship which the world can provide, but to properly solve the problem we must adopt the methods which bring the full weight of both of these classes of men to bear upon it without their unnecessary collisions during the first formulation period when they are properly concerned with two separate objectives."

"Again, and also anticipating certain comment, let me say that while it is the fashion of these sensationalists to attribute to any statement of irritating fact by a public man some malevolent purpose toward individuals, there is nothing of this in my mind."

"Reason for Failure. The committee from the governments which met at Geneva to agree upon naval disarmament was a mixture of statesmen and naval technicians, and in my judgment that was the reason for its failure. The method was adjusted to human nature, but not to human nature. We should not look upon the failure at Geneva in 1922 as the failure of individuals, but of the method under which they were asked to function."

"This may be said, however, that the laws of human nature probably 90 per cent of the Englishmen think the 90 per cent of the British members of the commission were responsible for the mistake. The great overwhelming and sole satisfying fact about it is that the British and American people are a unit in agreeing that, whoever was responsible for it, a mistake was made, and of what is this significant? It means that in the particular consciousness and hearts of two great English-speaking peoples, there is upheld, sacred and inviolate the principle of the equality between them of naval strength."

"Their attitude upon this question is unmistakable—assumed as this of the realm of debate even by nationalistic demagogues of both countries—while decorated by reasons, is based under the providence of God upon the highest of human instincts and a co-mingling of the blood."

"Under these circumstances, let us be hopeful for the cause of world peace and the progress of civilization; for in the joint hands of these English-speaking people rests not only their secure guaranty, but as well the fate of the covenant of human freedom."

"The prime minister told his hosts what took place at Logie House Sunday when he conferred with the newly arrived American ambassador. His speech was as follows: 'Be the merits or demerits of government what they may, I can claim one which will not be disputed, we lost no time getting into harness. We, at any rate, take no complacent view of the needs of the nation. I have made it clear both before and during the election that I put our relations with the United States in the forefront in national concern. VIRGINIA ANTI-SMITH MORGAN POWER GROUP GROUP CHOOSES BROWN MAKES NEW MERGER

Washington and Lee Professor To Lead Fight Against Old Party.

Three Eastern Companies Added to Interests Controlling Southeastern.

Roanoke, Va., June 15.—(AP)—Dr. William Moseley Brown, 35-year-old Washington and Lee university professor, was selected by Virginia Anti-Smith democrats today to lead them in their effort to wrest control of state offices from the democratic party, and repudiate democratic leaders who supported Alfred E. Smith for the presidency.

Nominated for governor by acclamation at the close of the Anti-Smith convention today, Dr. Brown came through the crowded auditorium to the platform and in a short address pledged himself to a vigorous campaign under the Anti-Smith banner. No reference was made to republicanism or support that might be expected either by Dr. Brown or by action of the convention itself.

"I have never been one of those who feared to champion a righteous cause, whatever the consequences to my personal fortunes or future career," Dr. Brown said. "For right is bound to triumph, and those who are condemned as ignominious and fanatical disturbers of the established order of things will tomorrow, I believe, be hailed as the pioneers of a new era in the history of humanity."

Anti-Smith Nominee.

Captain C. C. Berkeley, of Newport News, was named Anti-Smith nominee for attorney-general. No one was nominated for the third state office to be filled, that of lieutenant-governor, but the Anti-Smith executive committee of ten was authorized by resolution to select a candidate later if deemed advisable.

After a day in which democratic leaders, both state and national, were denounced by word of mouth and in the platform, the convention motion of J. F. Byars, of Alexandria, provided for the appointment of a committee with headquarters in Washington to co-operate with Anti-Smith groups in other states seeking the furtherance of the principles of the Anti-Smith democrats.

Demande Resignation To Quit.

The platform itself demanded the resignation of John J. Raskob, chairman of the democratic national committee, denounced the state democratic leadership as "a most dangerous despotism," advocated repeal of the "short ballot" amendments to the state constitution sponsored by the Byrd administration, and called for sweeping revision of the state's taxation policy to bring about reduction along many lines.

Although Anti-Smith leaders had announced that they had no convention plan, the convention was harmonious with unanimous action on practically every proposal. The only break in the otherwise smooth working came when I. C. Trotman, of Suffolk, member of the convention committee, submitted his resignation because a telegram sent by Trotman to Mrs. Herbert Hoover after the entertainment at the White House of the wife of a negro congressman "was so distasteful to the boss of the Anti-Smith democrats and his chief cohort in Richmond."

Mr. Trotman led an unsuccessful fight in the second district caucus for a resolution in the convention condemning social relations between the races. The convention, however, went on record as unalterably pledged to racial integrity and condemned social relations between the white and negro races, modified by the statement that "purely official relations must be maintained."

New York, June 15.—(AP)—Plans of J. P. Morgan and Company for a unification of the eastern power systems moved another step forward today with the announcement of the merger of three upper New York state companies into a $600,000,000 corporation.

The new company, to be known as Niagara Hudson Power Corporation, will unite through an exchange of stock Buffalo, Niagara and Eastern Power Corporation, Northeastern Power Corporation and Mohawk Hudson Power Corporation.

The most important unit in the combine is the Buffalo, Niagara and Eastern Power Corporation with its valuable water power rights at Niagara Falls and in the Oswego and Salmon rivers. It has long been controlled by the Schoellkopf interests, which, it is understood, will continue as an important factor in the new company.

This is the third public utility holding corporation formed by the Morgan interests in six months. United Corporation organized the first of the year to hold stocks of Mohawk Hudson Power, United Gas Improvement of Philadelphia and Public Service Corporation of New Jersey, will be an important stockholder in the new company. Commonwealth and Penn-Ohio Edison, was organized two months ago.

Stocks of the companies involved in the latest merger were relatively quiet today, but in the past two weeks have been selling at record high prices.

STATE UNIVERSITY'S PROBLEMS EXPLAINED

Athens, Ga., June 15.—(AP)—Dr. Henry Suzzallo, of the Carnegie foundation, told Georgia university alumni faculty members and seniors at the annual banquet this afternoon that there are two main problems hindering the advancement and proper functioning of the university.

One is the financial problem, which he attributed to the faculty but to outside forces. The state tax system, the speaker said, is one of the problems of difficulty, and "the other is the failure of the alumni to put into concerted action and power their feelings, their failure to capitalize the surplus energy devotion of their members."

After a week's survey of the situation at the university, Dr. Suzzallo's remarks today were considered as being along the same lines of a complete report he made to the chancellor. This report, the chancellor advised, will not be submitted to the board of trustees but will be submitted to the faculty for consideration.

Dr. Suzzallo declared that the university is not on a strong economic basis. One of the chief factors, he said, in keeping it going as well as it is, is the spirituality and perseverance of its faculty members, "their services could not be supplanted by others from the outside for the inadequate salaries they are getting," he said.

At the graduating exercises tomorrow Dr. Suzzallo will deliver the baccalaureate address.

Lack of maintenance funds is causing the university to face a crisis, Chancellor Snelling, who preceded Dr. Suzzallo, declared. He recalled that the budget committee planned to submit to the legislature a 25 per cent cut in the funds for state educational purposes, and stated that only a small amount of the money designated for use at the university had been given.

He sounded an appeal for courage and leadership to inform the people and legislature of the situation.

The alumni adopted a charter and by-laws designed to create a working corporation which will become effective upon ratification by Judge Blanton Fortson. The committee presenting the charter was headed by Thomas J. Shafter, of Athens, attorney. The action was said to have been started for the purpose of giving legal basis for transacting business of buying and selling property and for other activities which might benefit the university.

Mrs. Chrysler Pays Heavy Penalties To Customs Officer

New York, June 15.—(AP)—Mrs. Walter P. Chrysler, wife of the automobile manufacturer, paid $3,762 customs penalties on French gowns and summer dresses which she failed to declare upon her recent return from Europe, it became known today.

Customs officials said they were not satisfied when she submitted a sworn declaration listing foreign purchases subject to a total duty of $800 and seized her luggage after a re-examination.

The domestic value of the gowns and dresses was fixed at $1,881.20 to which was added 100 per cent for failure to make a full declaration.

Within 24 hours after the seizure, Mrs. Chrysler tendered a certified check for the full amount and the goods were released.

a liquor deal. They were not, however, willing to advance any theory as to why it was a liquor feud. Mrs. Aiken told the jury that she was her husband's victim.

Aiken, according to Chief Poole, has been arrested a number of times for minor offenses.

Detectives Stephens and Taylor spent Tuesday afternoon in the neighborhood of Cooper and Dean streets, near where the Aikens and Hunter lived, questioning a number of witnesses. They announced they would resume their investigation today.

"We are by no means satisfied with the story Aiken tells," Chief of Detectives A. Lamar Poole said. "Just what kind of a case we will eventually have against him I am unable to say now. The detectives assigned to the case have not completed their work, and until they do we won't dispute Aiken's statements."

Notes Cause Probe.

The police investigation also centered in a series of notes found after the double killing, some of which were handed relatives by Aiken and another which was found on the body of his wife. According to the police the notes found on the woman, which is reported to have carried the information supposedly to Hunter that "Sam is wise to us," was written on paper similar to the paper used by Aiken in his notes, and the police also say the handwriting is similar.

Chief Poole refused to go into detail regarding this phase of the investigation. He said the notes were being compared and he and others working on the case were not convinced that they were not written by the same person.

Aiken, who is an unemployed painter, was booked for murder in his cell at police headquarters Tuesday night—a highly nervous man, though apparently without feeling of remorse.

"I would do the same thing if I had to do it all over again," Aiken told police to whom he surrendered after having fled into a thicket near the Aiken residence. Aiken was reported to have taken the unwritten law for his motive in shooting the pair.

Goes to Neighbor.

According to accounts of the shooting related to police, Aiken went to the home of his neighbor, where Hunter, unmarried, lived with his parents, about 200 yards from Tuesday morning, returning shortly afterward to the Aiken residence, accompanied by Hunter. Aiken left Hunter with Mrs. Aiken in the kitchen and went into another portion of the house, returning a few minutes later with a double-barreled shotgun, it was said.

He leveled the gun and fired, police were told, the charge taking effect in Hunter's right chest, close to the heart. Mrs. Aiken fled through the rear door into the yard. While Hunter fell to the kitchen floor, Aiken pursued his wife into the yard, shot her in hand, police reported. He fired one time at his wife as she ran, reloading the weapon and again pulled the trigger.

Head Is Shattered.

When Mrs. Aiken's body was found by neighbors who rushed to the scene, her head was partly blown away.

Aiken told police he fled from the residence following the shooting because he feared the crowd that gathered from the neighborhood. Carrying the shotgun under his arm, he went down Cooper street, passing the residence where his wife's relatives lived on the way, police reported.

Aiken had borrowed the weapon Monday from Jesse Cates, brother of the slain wife, saying he was "going hunting," it was said.

As he headed toward the clump of trees on Doane street, about four blocks from the home, Aiken passed Mrs. J. W. Kates, 799 Cooper street, a relative of his wife. "What were those shots, Sam?" Mrs. Kates asked, she told police. Aiken paused and thrust three bloodstained notes into Mrs. Cates' hand, then answered, "I've just killed them. They had it coming to them. These will tell it to the world and you, too, if you don't already know it."

Riot Squad Called.

The shooting brought a riot squad to the scene, headed by Chief Beavers. The police had been warned that Aiken intended to "shoot it out" and declared he "would not be taken alive."

An hour later Aiken was in custody of the police. When spotted in the thicket he was ordered to come out and leave the gun behind. He emerged from shelter of the trees, hands over head, without sign of resistance.

Chief of Detectives A. Lamar Poole disclosed the contents of the three notes given Mrs. Cates by Aiken. One, addressed to his two sons, Buster, 20, and Fritz, 17, read:

"Well, boys, I am doing the thing I think is right. Your mother has betrayed us and I caught her in the act. Don't blame me. Her and the Boyce Hunter planned to put me in the changing so they could have a good time. For I listened to their conversation yesterday. So this is all to it. Love."

let and let him give Buster his part of it, for Carl will give him his part. Do this for me. Yours truly, S. F. Aiken.—P. S. Maybe I want Fritz to have the diamond ring, for he is the baby."

A note was found on the body of the dead wife to the following effect: "Be careful. Sam heard our plans yesterday."

A few hours after the shooting Fritz Aiken was found digging in the rear of the Aiken home with a spade. He declared that his mother said if anything happened he would find a box containing valuables planted in the yard. After digging in several locations, the box, believed to contain two diamond rings and $25 in gold pieces, could not be found.

JAPANESE VOLCANO SUBSIDES; MANY RETURN TO HOMES

Tokyo, June 15.—(AP)—The Hokkaido government (telegraphed the home office today that the volcano Komagatake, north of Hakodate, subsided somewhat early today, and refugees from many villages thereabout were returning to their homes.

Six mountain climbers from Hakodate were reported missing in the government dispatch but there was no mention of various other missing groups which the native press here had listed.

EMORY UNIT TO MEET

Reorganization Will Be Discussed.

Plans for organization of a reunion will be discussed at a special meeting of the Emory unit at 8 o'clock Friday night in the Davis-Fischer nurses' home. Announcement of the meeting was made by Dr. Frank K. Boland. The Emory unit was composed of Atlanta doctors and nurses early in the war and served in France.

NEW TRIAL IS ASKED BY EARL MANCHESTER

Motion Will Be Heard July 27; "I Didn't Tell Jury All," Youth Says.

Macon, Ga., June 15.—(AP)—Judge H. A. Mathews announced late today that attorneys for Earl Manchester, sentenced to death in the electric chair for the murder of James W. Parks, 13-year-old youth, had filed a motion for new trial, declaring that irrelevant testimony had been admitted during the trial, and that he would hear the argument July 27.

Manchester, who confessed he killed Parks in an "insurance plot" whereby he was to be paid $1,000 by Mrs. J. C. Powers, beneficiary of the policy on Parks' life, is scheduled to pay the supreme penalty on August 14.

Judge Mathews pronounced sentence this morning, soon after which Manchester fainted in the arms of his brother, Elmer Manchester. He was revived and told court attaching house proprietress, "is more to blame than I."

Mrs. Powers is to be tried next week on a charge of being an accessory before the fact in the slaying of the orphan youth.

The trial of Manchester lasted only about 10 hours, the jury returning a verdict of guilty last night without recommendation for mercy.

After the sentencing today Manchester was returned to his cell, where he declared that he didn't remember leaving the courtroom, nor

WOMAN ROBBED IN HER OWN YARD BY PURSE GRABBER

Mrs. A. C. Cook, of 461 Moreland avenue, was standing in her driveway talking to a neighbor late Tuesday afternoon when a dilapidated touring car drove up to the curb and a man leaped out, snatched her purse and escaped, police were told. Mrs. Cook stated that the purse contained valuable papers but very little money. A description of the automobile and its occupants was furnished to police.

Phones to Brother, Then Nashville Man Shoots Himself

Nashville, Tenn., June 15.—(AP)—William R. Megar, 30, manager of a shirt shop, shot himself near the heart on the second floor of the shop this morning, after telephoning his brother, T. M. Megar. He staggered down the stairs and fell at the front door of the shop, which had not been opened for business. The brother broke open the door and found him. He had a wife and three children. Business worries are supposed to have been the cause.

The date on which the sentence was to be carried out.

"I didn't tell the jury near all that I wanted to when I made my statement. I wanted to go more into details about Mrs. Powers. I didn't go out that night with the intention of killing Parks. Mrs. Powers gave us a drink of wine before we left, and I didn't know a thing that happened."

FLEEING LIQUOR CAR HAD HARD EVENING

Too Many Police and Two Autos Are Taken—Occupants Make Getaway.

Two large automobiles and 25 gallons of liquor were confiscated and six call officers, four on other missions figured in the liquor chase early Tuesday night in the vicinity of Hood, Rawson, Richardson and Connally streets.

Call Officers Brown and Scott, returning to police station, noticed four men transferring liquor from a touring car to a large sedan on Hood street, near Rawson. The touring car was confiscated while the four men escaped in the sedan.

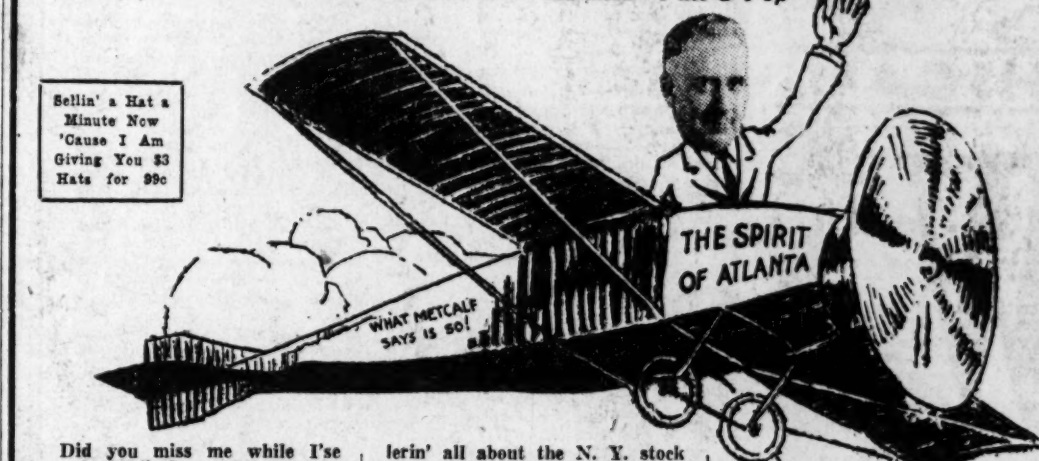

A few minutes later a sedan containing two men struck another machine at Quillian and Rawson streets and continued on after bursting a tire. Call Officers Higgins and Covington were summoned by witnesses and arrived in time to get in the chase of the partially disabled machine.

As Officers Moseley and Floyd were returning from a call, they saw a large sedan with a tire punctured running at a high rate of speed. They headed the machine off and blocked its way at Connally and Richardson streets. Two occupants of the car jumped out and escaped. The car and 15 gallons of liquor were taken to police station.

Back on the Job!

Metcalfe Returns to Atlanta "Full-O-Pep"

Did you miss me while I've gone? Well, I wasn't asleep on the job. The man who goes to sleep on the job today—will find a man standing in his shoes tomorrow. Old Rip Van Winkle went to sleep for twenty years and it didn't matter much then days 'cause when he woke up 'bout the only thing had happened was his favorite dog was dead and his old gun 'dun' got rusty. Lot of these here old time merchants still buyin' from the traveling man with a few samples under his arm quatin' New York wholesale prices 'dun' gone to sleep on the job. They ain't never been to New York to find out what they CAN DO if they got the Jack in their hand. When I got off the train at Philadelphia newsboys was holding all about the N. Y. stock exchange excitement. Big front page stuff tellin' about our government payin' more than 5% interest for $400,000,000.00 and in the same story stating that manufacturers and big business "better wait and see" what's goin' to happen 'fore they borrow money at an excessive rate of interest to carry on legitimate business.

But I found out when I went down the avenues of trade that many of the clothing manufacturers couldn't wait and the padlock had already been placed on the shop doors.

The fellows who were still hangin' on was sure 'nough lookin' for a cash buyer and when I showed 'em my "dead men's pictures" why you know I got 'em at my price.

Yes, fine hand tailored suits as well as tropical wares and Palm Beach suits. I got 'em in my store now and will give 'em to you at about half the price you had expected to pay.

Rayon Silk Unionsuits, white and colored Broadcloth Shirts, as well as 1,000 dozen pairs of fine silk hose—are on sale at my store now at less than manufacturers' wholesale cost.

Yours truly,

How and Why Ironized Yeast Works Such Quick Flesh-Building Wonders

Ironized Yeast is two great tonics in one. Weight-building YEAST and strengthening, blood-enriching IRON. The Yeast is the kind used in making malt and which makes alcohol beneficial.

This Yeast is treated with two kinds of iron used for years by highest medical authorities. Iron enriches the blood; makes cheeks rosy; tones nerves and muscles.

The Yeast is further treated with Violet Rays, the latest scientific discovery, which increases its energizing and weight-building powers.

Only when Yeast is thus Ironized is it most effective; for Iron is needed to bring out the weight-building, strengthening value of Yeast. By this special formula, Ironized Yeast gives you results in half the time required by Yeast or Iron taken separately.

No excuse now for ugly hollows, bony limbs or blemished skin. Get IRONIZED YEAST today. Pleasant tablets; no "yeasty" taste; no gas or bloating.

CAPITAL IS CLEANED

State House Prepared for Session of Georgia Assembly.

Workmen were busy at the state capitol Tuesday cleaning furniture, windows and walls in the senate chamber and the house of representatives halls, preparatory to the meeting of the Georgia general assembly.

The session will begin Wednesday, June 26, and will last for 60 days.

Members of the legislative body are expected to arrive in Atlanta next Monday and Tuesday for the session. Representative Parker New, of Laurens county, was one of the first in the field at the capitol Tuesday but he said he would return to Dublin and remain there until the day before the session is scheduled to start.

World Flier's Divorce Case Will Go to Supreme Court

PRISCILLA DEAN'S WEDDING INVOLVED

LT. L. P. ARNOLD

Failure of Superior Court Judge G. H. Howard to permit a jury to pass on the evidence in the case in which Mrs. Mildred Avery Arnold was granted a divorce from former Lieutenant Leslie P. Arnold, round-the-world flier, will result in the case being taken to the state supreme court, Robert E. L. Cone and George G. Finch, counsel for Arnold, said late Tuesday afternoon.

Announcement of the appeal came a few hours after a jury in Judge Howard's court had brought in a directed divorce decree for Mrs. Arnold, set aside a divorce in 1928 in favor of her husband and, lawyers said, by voiding the 1928 decree also voided the marriage of the flier to Priscilla Dean, motion picture star with whom he flew to Mexico and married last summer. The Arnold counsel also said that the marriage would not be voided until the higher courts had passed on the issue.

Mrs. Arnold, whose home is in Groton, Conn., told the jury Tuesday that she married the flier in 1917, shortly before he obtained a commission in the army, that he served at various flying fields in this country and then went overseas, spent some time with her at Groton on his return and then deserted her.

Arnold obtained the decree here in 1928, charging his wife with desertion. At that time he still was in the army and was stationed at Fort McPherson.

In her petition which brought about Tuesday's verdict, Mrs. Arnold said that she had never been notified that her husband had filed suit and that she knew nothing of it until Arnold wrote her later and told her of the divorce. The petition charged the husband with desertion.

The statement from Arnold's counsel Tuesday afternoon said that the flier and his wife reached a mutual agreement several years ago regarding a divorce, that Mrs. Arnold promised to obtain it and that Arnold acted only after his wife had failed to carry out her part of the alleged agreement.

It also was brought out at the trial Tuesday that Arnold resigned his army commission after Mrs. Arnold had come to Atlanta and sought information regarding the divorce and that the circumstances were investigated by other officers at Fort McPherson.

STATE MAPS READY

Georgia Highways Shown in Drafts Now Ready.

The state department of agriculture now has on hand copies of the 1929 map of Georgia, ready for distribution, it was announced Tuesday. The department prepares these maps each year to show various highways in the state as well as other general topographical information. Because of the changes in roads new maps are issued each year.

POST CARDS STOLEN

Enoree, S. C., Reports Theft. Package Is Taken in Florida.

Theft of 100 post cards from the postoffice at Enoree, S. C., was reported Tuesday to Postoffice Inspector in Charge Joe P. Johnston. The belief has been expressed that a departing vacationist was responsible, but no arrests had reported up to a late hour Tuesday afternoon. One C. O. D. package was also reported stolen from the postoffice at De Leon Springs, Fla.

LOWRY BANK MAKES 10-TO-1 STOCK SPLIT

Atlanta Organization Votes Change Effective After July 8.

Par value of the stock of the Atlanta & Lowry National bank was reduced from $100 to $10 a share by action of the stockholders of the bank at a meeting held Tuesday afternoon.

It was stated that the change was made in order that the stock of the bank might be held in more convenient form, and does not contemplate the issuance of any additional stock. The plan was voted by directors of the bank several weeks ago and formally approved by the stockholders Tuesday.

Robert F. Maddox, chairman of the board of directors, made public the following statement:

"At the special meeting of the stockholders of the Atlanta & Lowry National bank held this afternoon, which was called for the purpose of reducing the par value of the stock of the bank from $100 per share to $10 per share, by increasing the outstanding stock from 40,000 shares to 400,000 shares, resolutions were unanimously adopted approving the reduction in the par value of the shares as recommended by the board of directors. "Reduction in the par value of the capital stock of the bank does not call for the sale of any additional stock but merely gives each shareholder 10 shares of stock, the equivalent in value to one now held.

"The new shares will be available for exchange at the Pryor street office of the bank on and after July 8. "The Atlanta & Lowry National bank is operating under the oldest national bank charter in the cotton states, having been chartered in 1866, beginning with a paid-in capital stock of $100,000. Its first banking office was the old residence of General Austell, its first president, on Marietta street upon the site where is now located the Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta.

"The capital of the bank has been increased several times to meet the growing needs of this section of the south as it has developed during the past 64 years, until the capital investment of the Atlanta & Lowry National bank and its affiliated institution, the Trust Company of Georgia, is now in excess of $13,000,000, with total resources of more than $75,000,000."

Postmaster Leaves.

Postmaster E. K. Large, accompanied by his family, left Atlanta Tuesday morning for New Jersey expecting to be away for approximately a month on a combined business and pleasure trip. Assistant Postmaster John Martin will be in charge of the postoffice until his return.

The NEW TREND IN BUSINESS

--makes a still greater place for the Powerful Force of

MOTION PICTURE ADVERTISING

The new trend in business is toward pooled interests, greater efficiency, wider distribution than ever before thought possible, and ever-increasing service to the consuming public.

The day of slipshod investment and methods is gone. Every dollar expended in any line of business—for whatever purpose—must do its share in getting results. A powerful medium is needed to spread this new gospel of service, to herald the new era of business. Certainly Motion Picture Advertising with its tremendous influence and definite reader-response, its guaranteed circulation, and universal language of pictures fits admirably into this new scheme of things.

PATRONAGE COMMITTEE MAKES GEORGIA REPORT

Recommendations Are Made for Post Office Positions to Brown.

The advisory committee appointed by Postmaster-General Walter F. Brown the latter part of April to assist in filling vacancies in the post-office department in Georgia, met here Tuesday and made approximately 40 recommendations for postoffice appointments, it was learned from reliable sources.

It was stated that no names could be made public but that each applicant will be informed direct of the action of the committee.

Six of the total membership of eight were present at Tuesday's gathering, it was said. Lindsey Hopkins, prominent Atlanta business organization, is head of the group which includes the following: I. H. Petty, of Savannah; H. Lovvorn, of Carrollton; E. A. Henry, of Augusta; John D. Taylor, of Summerville; G. C. Dekle, of Millen; W. A. Carlisle, of Gainesville, and H. Davis, of Macon.

As announced in The Constitution April 30, Mr. Hopkins stated that the group of state representatives, himself and seven others, had been requested by Postmaster-General Brown to assist him in making recommendations and that all had consented to do so. Colonel Horace A. Mann, prominent national republican leader, had previously announced the personnel of a committee which was to have similar functions, war clouds collected on the horizon and for a time it seemed that nothing short of presidential action could stop the impending conflict. All passed over, however, and the Brown committee has continued to function.

CRIPPLED CHILDREN TO BE CLUB GUESTS

Tiny inmates of the Scottish Rite Hospital for Crippled Children today will be guests of honor at the regular weekly luncheon meeting of the Atlanta Masonic Club, when final arrangements for that organization's milk fund campaign for the crippled children will be made. The luncheon will be held at the Wincoff hotel at 12:30 o'clock.

The campaign to provide nourishing milk for the little cripples will be conducted all next week at Loew's Capitol theater, when sub-debs of the P. B. Club dressed as milk maids with tin pails on their arms, receiving contributions.

B. C. Broyles is president of the Masonic Club and will preside at today's luncheon. The milk fund committee is composed of Dr. Claude N. Hughes, Herbert Porter and Julian Boehm.

BAPTIST ALLIANCE SECRETARY HERE FOR CONFERENCES

Dr. J. H. Rushbrooke, general secretary of the Baptist World Alliance, arrived in Atlanta Tuesday night and will spend Wednesday here, meeting prominent Baptist leaders during the day for conferences and addressing a mass meeting of Baptists and other Christians Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. at the Druid Hills Baptist church, corner Ponce de Leon and Highland avenues.

Dr. Rushbrooke is in Atlanta en route from Denver, where he attended the North Baptist convention, to Charleston, where he speaks tomorrow evening. He will go immediately from Charleston to New York and take ship Friday night for England. He lives in London and conducts his work from that city. He came to the United States early in May, attending the Southern Baptist convention at Memphis and going from there to Canada for some engagements before returning to Denver for the Northern Baptist convention.

He is in Atlanta upon the invitation of the executive committee of the Druid Hills Baptist church and editor of the Christian Index. His address at Druid Hills Wednesday evening will center about the Russian Baptist situation, though he will give a survey of the Baptist cause throughout the world. Dr. Rushbrooke is conversant with the Baptist people in every country in Europe and Asia and comes at least once each year to America.

Postmasters' League Ends Savannah Meet

Savannah, Ga., June 18.—(P)—Following the election of officers and the selection of Savannah as the next year's convention city, the two-day session of the Georgia branch of the National League of District Postmasters closed here today.

H. C. Hayes, Mansfield, was elected president. Other officers were Mrs. L. B. Rushing, Glenview, first vice president; B. N. Walters, of Martin, second vice president; Miss Mattie M. Lewis, of Fayetteville, third vice president; Miss Mellicie Pitts, of Newborn, secretary-treasurer.

The executive committee is composed of J. D. Long, Bremen; J. A. Crook, of Rockford, delegates to the national convention at H. C. Hayes, of Mansfield; H. N. Walters, of Martin, and R. A. Waters, of Alpharetta, alternate.

Fred Owen, president of the Rural Carriers Association of Florida, made a brief address today.

Congressman Charles G. Edwards, of Georgia, spoke to the assembled delegates today on "our government."

In his address Mr. Edwards declared "the national lawmakers are criticized—men in public life are always marks for criticism—and because of this fact all who serve in this capacity should have alligator hides."

The congressman cited the concentration of wealth in the hands of a few in the comparatively short space of the existence of our government.

"There are approximately 122,000,000 to 123,000,000 people constituting the total population of the country, including farmers, merchants, doctors, the laboring man, and many others, including those who neither spin or toil, and yet depilate the enormous masses of population, men representing only 5 per cent of the total hold practically the entire wealth of this country," Mr. Edwards said.

Relief legislation for the postmasters, who, he declared, do more and are paid less than most any other class, will not come before congress in the December term. The post-office and postroads legislation committees have not yet been renamed, and nothing along these lines need be expected in the present session, he pointed out.

The speaker urged all Americans to fight vigorously any attempt which would encroach upon the form of government given by our fathers, and which we must equip ourselves to perpetuate.

ATTEMPT TO SLAY
MATE IS CHARGED TO WAYCROSS MAN

Waycross, Ga., June 18.—(Special) Jack Ward, white, is lodged in the county jail on a peace warrant sworn out by his wife after he is alleged to have attempted to kill her in a local boarding house Saturday night.

City Officer William Williams, who made the arrest, was on duty Saturday night in police barracks in the municipal building when he heard shots and screams coming from the boarding house opposite the station, at 601 Pendleton street. He rushed from the station and across the street, where, upon entering the house, he discovered that Ward had attempted to use his pistol upon his wife, but failed to hit her when he fired. Ward was arrested by Williams and was transferred today to the county jail.

Mrs. Ward later swore out a peace warrant against her husband.

D. A. V. Groups Asked To Send Delegates
To Rally at LaGrange

Millidgeville, June 18.—(P)—All chapters of the Disabled American Veterans of the World War in the state have been called upon by Commander C. B. McCullar to send representatives to the state rally at LaGrange July 4. It has been announced here.

The meeting will last two days, the first to be devoted to a picnic and outing and the second to a business meeting of the state executive committee.

The organization will inaugurate a drive to enroll every eligible World War veteran in its membership, Mr. McCullar said.

LEGIONNAIRES GATHER IN BRUNSWICK TODAY

Elaborate Preparations Made for Annual Convention of Georgia Department.

Brunswick, Ga., June 18.—(P)—American Legion flags whipping smartly in the breeze and the enthusiastic salutes of "buddies" gathering from every corner of the state heralded the annual convention of the Georgia department of the American Legion, which opens tomorrow at the Memorial auditorium.

Rapidly increasing groups of "buddies" told that the attendance this year will be large. They are meeting everywhere in decorated streets and in ship-beleeked hotels—for the convention.

One of the earliest arrivals was Frank H. Hans, of Atlanta, grand chief de cante of the Forty and Eight, and he came a day in advance to help the local committee stage the biggest wreck ever pulled at a legion convention. The big wreck—with the monster parade—will be the main entertainment features tomorrow.

The Forty and Eight will have the first day in which to meet and talk over vital matters as Hans' gavel is expected to sound at 10:30 o'clock tomorrow morning. Executive committees of the legion are planning a session at 8:30 a. m. tomorrow.

Thursday morning at 9:30 o'clock the legion and auxiliary will convene in joint session at the Memorial auditorium.

The Wednesday evening dance will be the first affair of the social round which the local entertainment committee has arranged for the visitors.

SEA ISLAND BEACH AWAITS DELEGATES

Sea Island Beach, Saint Simons Island, Ga., June 18.—(Special)—Sea Island Beach is looking forward with pleasure to the arrival of 1,500 to 1,800 Legionnaires on Thursday of this week. Official headquarters for the convention are in Brunswick. Except for the time consumed by business meetings, the Legionnaires will spend the greater portion of their time on Saint Simons Island.

Here, a great variety of diversions and facilities for their pleasure and amusement have been provided. They will bathe in the surf at Sea Island Beach and in the pool of the attractive Casino Club on the ocean front. They will fish, golf, shoot swim, motor and enjoy the thrill of sail or motor boating on the water-ways adjacent.

Thursday night, the Casino Club will entertain with a dance—and in spite of the fact that Thursday is one of the three regular weekly dance nights, the management of the club has found it necessary to limit attendance during the Legion convention to Legionnaires and their invited guests. Invitations have been issued by the entertainment committee of the Brunswick post of the American Legion.

Regular dance at the Casino Club at Sea Island Beach will be held on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday evenings. The dance floor is elevated, overlooking the ocean and is refreshingly comfortable—due to the fact that it enjoys a constant sea breeze.

MACON MINISTERS
ATTACK EFFORTS FOR "OPEN SUNDAY"

Macon, Ga., June 18.—(P)—All efforts to violate or abrogate existing Sunday closing laws were "unilaterally opposed" in resolutions passed today by the Macon Ministerial union.

"We have been advised that certain legislators plan to seek repeal of the Sunday laws in the coming session of the general assembly," it was set forth, "and this association hereby resolves to oppose such legislation."

The resolution applies particularly, ministers said, to proposals of Bibb county legislators to seek repeal of a law legalizing Sunday baseball and movies in Georgia.

GIANT AMPHIBIAN
PLANE TAKES OFF FOR VENEZUELA

Miami, Fla., June 18.—(P)—A giant amphibian plane took off here at 6:53 a. m. today for Venezuela via Cristobal, Canal Zone, inaugurating the longest air mail route in the world.

The plane, owned by Pan-American Airways, Inc., carried 47 pounds of mail and three passengers, all officials of the company in the coming session of the assembly here.

This commission is to assemble in New York Avenue Presbyterian church, Washington, tomorrow morning and then call on President Hoover and tender to him the support of the Presbyterian church in his stand for law observance. In its conference with the president the commission will be headed by Moderator McAfee. The commission was authorized by the general assembly at St. Paul May 27.

The avowed purpose is to give encouragement to the president in carrying out his policies for law observance and enforcement, and it quicken the consciences of Presbyterians to observe the law themselves both as citizens and as Christians.

The commission will have a luncheon conference with Presbyterian members of the cabinet and will adopt a plan of national campaign for law observance. It will also issue a proclamation to all Presbyterians to observe Sunday, June 30, as national loyalty Sunday.

TO CAUSE FIRING,
DRY CHIEF SAYS

Los Angeles, June 18.—(P)—All Official, assistant prohibition commissioner here, has announced that in future the use of firearms by a federal prohibition agent to prevent the escape of a suspect will result in the agent's dismissal.

"Only two excuses for the use of a gun by an officer of the prohibition department will be recognized," Official said. "One is self-defense and the other is to save the lives of others. We have given orders that in no cases are guns to be used to prevent escapes."

HOUSE ON PEACHTREE DAMAGED BY FLAMES

Fire of undetermined origin caused considerable damage early Wednesday morning to a large house at 731 Peachtree street, formerly known as the Blanchard and Hart funeral home. The house has been vacant for several weeks.

The fire was first discovered in the rear of the first floor and spread rapidly before firemen arrived, but with several streams of water on it, the blaze was quickly extinguished.

Hundreds of late theater goers and passing motorists gathered and watched the flames.

HARVARD SENIOR FIRED ON GRADUATION EVE

Charged With Hiding Obscenity in Commencement Hymn He Wrote.

Boston, June 18.—(P)—Edward Fitzhugh, of Boise, Idaho, author of the Harvard college senior class hymn and prominent in student literary affairs, who was to have been graduated with his class Thursday, has been dismissed, it was learned today. College authorities declined to comment on the case.

Fitzhugh, who was an editor of the Harvard Advocate, a student monthly, was dismissed because of the inclusion, by means of an anagram, of immorality into the hymn. His dismissal came at the height of commencement week activities which were ushered in with a baccalaureate program which included the singing of the hymn.

The hymn, a work of four verses of four lines each, contained sacred sentiment. It was discovered after the baccalaureate service, however, that it had been written in the form of an anagram, which if the first letters of 16 lines were read downward, spelled out four obscene words.

Fitzhugh was reported to have left Cambridge immediately after his dismissal. Student friends stated, however, that the anagram developed primarily by accident and that after he realized the situation he developed it further, believing that only he would be aware of it.

The dismissal of Fitzhugh was the most drastic punishment meted out for a literary offense in many years.

Rainfall Likely But Mercury To Hold Steady

Jupiter Pluvius has at least an even chance of crashing through with a bit of precipitation this afternoon, according to the forecast of C. F. von Herrmann, local meteorologist, while the temperature is scheduled to continue the even tenor of its way.

Absolutely despairing of bringing any real summer maximums to this vicinity, Mr. von Herrmann a little sorrowfully declares it his opinion that today's range will duplicate Tuesday's when extremes of 68 and 86 were placed upon the record books.

Chiefly by accident and that after he realized the situation he developed it further, believing that only he would be aware of it.

The dismissal of Fitzhugh was the most drastic punishment meted out for a literary offense in many years.

DEAN'S RIGHT TO PICK LAW FACULTY UPHOLD

Resolution Urging Retention of Stephens Upon Rejected by Georgia Faculty.

Athens, Ga., June 18.—(P)—The right of Dean H. N. Edmunds, of the University of Georgia Law school to select his own faculty was upheld today by the Alumni Society of the university in rejecting a resolution that urged retention of Stephen C. Upson as a member of the law faculty. The resolution was introduced by Lamar C. Rucker, Athens attorney.

Right of the dean to select his faculty was part of an agreement of the society with the trustees whereby the society pledged $100,000 for a new law building. Mr. Rucker charged that "a few rich men dominate the board of trustees and the Alumni Society and the trustees have traded their right to elect teachers for a $100,000 law building."

Judge W. H. Barrett, of Augusta, replied that the issue was not whether Mr. Upson was competent as a teacher and as a lawyer, but whether the Alumni Society would stand by its agreement. Mr. Rucker said the election of Mr. Upson would be to a vacancy created by the death of Sylvanus Morris, but Judge W. H. Fleming, of the board of trustees, said no vacancy existed and the board had no money to create new places. Mr. Upson was a part-time teacher and only full-time teachers were selected for re-election by Dean Edmunds, it was declared.

Several law school students under Mr. Upson testified that he was an able instructor. Thomas J. Shackelford, of Athens, praised Mr. Upson but said that to adopt the resolution for his retention would be an "unfortunate repudiation" of the agreement. Judge Fleming presented a similar attitude and the resolution was defeated.

Prior to debate over the Rucker resolution, Judge Barrett reported that $80,000 had been subscribed to the new law building, which will be named for Harold Hirsch, of Atlanta.

Dr. Craig Barrow, of Savannah, incoming president of the Alumni Society, opened the meeting with an address on what he described an "organic sickness" of the university. He said that as chairman of the board of managers during the past year, he had been in a position to study existing conditions and that "a policy dominated by fear had resulted in young professors being sacrificed at home to be exiled elsewhere."

Dr. Barrow declared that "an impossible situation existed where the dean of the agriculture college is elected by one board of trustees and the president of the agricultural and mechanical college is elected by another board and the faculty of a university proper is controlled by still another board."

The situation outlined, he said, destroyed "academic freedom," and should be rectified by the alumni.

Perils of Air Mail Trails Related in Special Series

The Constitution presents the fourth of a series of articles which show the dangers attending the duties of Rough Riders of the Air Mail, written exclusively by air mail pilots for The Constitution and the North American Newspaper Alliance. This interesting feature will be carried daily.

BY PAUL COLLINS,
Mail Pilot for the National Air Transport on New York-Cleveland Run.
Written Exclusively for The Constitution and the North American Newspaper Alliance.

(Copyright, 1929, by the North American Newspaper Alliance.)
When a wing was torn off my plane in a terrific night storm 10,000 feet above the Allegheny Mountains I had the most exciting experience I have yet encountered in flying the mail.

November 28 last, I left Cleveland at 4 in the morning with 800 pounds of mail and express for New York. The weather from Bellefonte, Pa., to Hadley field, New Brunswick, N. J., was reported good, but a line squall traveling 25 miles an hour had passed Cleveland five hours before, with strong and gusty winds.

I figured on hitting the squall near Clarion, Pa. Because of the report, by another pilot then down at Mercer, Pa., that it would be virtually impossible to fly under the squall, I decided to try to fly over it.

The cloud formations started just beyond Mercer, and began to get higher. Near Clarion they were higher still, and, seeing that I could not go over I flew in them at 10,000 feet. I figured I would be in them 15 or 20 minutes.

For the first five minutes the air was fairly bumpy, but it was not too bad—just enough to keep me on my toes to hold the ship on its course.

At this time, in the darkness and black clouds, I could see only the instrument board—absolutely nothing outside the cockpit. The instrument lights were not on, as I wanted to be able to see a break in the clouds, or stars if they appeared. But I could read the instruments perfectly by the radium glow.

Flying at Terrific Speed.
I was maintaining a perfect south-east course when I ran into extremely rough air. However, it wasn't as rougher than I had flown through many times before.

Suddenly the ship seemed to acquire great speed. The turn indicator was thrown back to the right and stayed there, despite efforts to dislodge it.

I pulled hard up on the stick and gave full left rudder, easing off the motor at the same time. The ship seemed to slow up, but the turn indicator was still to the right. This was only momentary, and the ship immediately picked up great speed again.

The last time I had seen the air speed indicator the plane was traveling 100 miles an hour with the turn indicator still hard right. Then there began a violent shaking—as if someone had hold of me and was manhandling me.

This shaking, or snapping, was so violent that my head was thrown back and forth. The speed of the ship seemed appalling. The last I had noticed the altimeter read approximately six or seven thousand feet, which was just before the snapping began. I had been positive before this that there was something wrong.

Now the plane was falling into a spin. I have been in many spins, but this was entirely different. It was so much more violent.

Gets Ready to Jump.
As I look back on it I cannot say whether the spinning and snapping were to the right or left. When the snapping began I had my first thought of getting out. I unfastened my safety belt and started to get up. But I have no recollection of getting out and jumping.

It seemed as if I fell out, which would indicate that the ship was either on its back, or at least more on its back than right side up.

I saw nothing of the plane, and it took me some time to locate the ripcord of my parachute. I fell probably 1,000 or 1,500 feet before I found the ring and opened the chute.

I opened almost instantly, pinning my left arm upright.

The only thing I could tell as I floated down was that it appeared to get darker and darker, although it had already been so black I couldn't see anything. Then I heard a dull crash below; undoubtedly the ship had hit.

I struck the ground without seeing it. The parachute caught in second-growth trees and didn't drag me, although the wind was blowing 30 to 40 miles an hour.

After 45 minutes of wandering through the darkness along a pipe line I came to a farmhouse. A man named Himes, who lived there, immediately started gathering a party of men. We searched for the ship until 8 o'clock in the morning.

I first went to recover my parachute. Near it we found the left lower wing of the plane, broken off about one-quarter of the way out.

Then we started through the woods, finding small debris all along. We discovered the ship three-quarters of a mile from the wing. I got some grain sacks, gathered up the mail, and took it to the postoffice at Brookville, Pennsylvania.

There was nothing much left of the plane but scraps and bolts and nuts. The motor was buried seven feet in the earth.

CITY IS ENJOINED FROM ENFORCING NEW ZONING LAW

Atlanta's zoning law was attacked Tuesday as unconstitutional in a petition filed in Fulton superior court for an injunction to prevent the city from interfering with construction of a store building on the northwest corner of Westwood and Cascade.

Plaintiffs are the Real Estate Loan Company, A. G. Smith and Harry W. Belfor. Judge John D. Humphries issued a temporary restraining order against the city.

Belfor applied for a permit for the store building, and construction was started. Afterward the zoning law was passed by council December 21, 1928, and an ordinance was passed revoking the permit, the petitioners allege.

The plaintiffs charge that the zoning ordinance was never read a second time in city council as the law requires, although the petition sets out that the minutes of council record a second reading. The reading alleged that the zoning law amounts to confiscation. The petition was filed by Roy S. Drennon as attorney, and was set by Judge Humphries for a hearing Saturday.

WELFARE REPORT

State Board Will Account for Activities During Year.

The state board of public welfare will have its report for the state legislature ready in a few days, it was announced Tuesday by Dr. Comer Woodward, executive director. The report will show details of the work accomplished by the department during the year.

CHANGE IN HEALTH LAWS IS INDORSED IN CRISP COUNTY

Several resolutions have been passed by various counties of Georgia and by civic organizations indorsing the proposed changes in the Ellis public health laws advocated by a special commission named by the governor to study health conditions in Georgia. It was announced Tuesday by Dr. T. F. Abernethy, state health commissioner. The latest organization reporting passage of resolutions was the Crisp county board of trade, which forwarded copies to the department Tuesday.

RETAIL CREDIT CO. TAKES OUT PERMIT FOR LARGER HOME

Permit for a six-story addition to the present three-story building of the Retail Credit Company was issued Tuesday by C. J. Bowen, city building inspector. The addition will cost $188,000, according to the application for the permit. Morgan, Dillon & Lewis are the architects, and the structure will be built by the Southern Ferro Concrete Company. The building is at the northeast corner of Fairlie and Poplar streets.

140 TULSA BOOSTERS GUESTS OF ATLANTA

Oklahoma Tour Making Swing Around Eastern Part of Country.

Entirely unequipped with "cowboy paraphernalia" which characterized her citizenry a couple of decades ago, some 140 representatives of the now thriving metropolis of Tulsa, Okla., paid Atlanta a brief visit Tuesday morning as a short break in their third annual swing around the eastern part of the country on a tour sponsored by the Tulsa Chamber of Commerce.

Included in the party were some 20 delegates from Seminole, Okla., which boasts a population of slightly more than 20,000, representing a growth of some 18,700 in the last three years. Rumor has it that included in the 20 were no less than seven of the millionaire class. Seminole, like Tulsa, being noted for its quantity production of petroleum. Oil's well in Oklahoma, it was stated.

The visitors were greeted by representatives of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce and the Atlanta Real Estate Board, Mayor Ragsdale, Philip Alston, president of the Chamber of Commerce; Milton Bell, of the Federal Reserve bank; and Henderson headed the reception committee.

The program for the morning included a breakfast at the Atlanta Athletic Club and a sight-seeing tour of the city and near-by points of interest. After several local citizens had made it plain that Atlanta was delighted to have such a visitation, speeches of acknowledgment were made by Mayor Dan Patton, of Tulsa; Mayor J. H. Harbor, of Seminole; N. R. Graham, former president of the Oklahoma Chamber of Commerce, and Roy Griffith, of Seminole.

The visitors went on their way rejoicing Tuesday afternoon and will touch Greenville, S. C., High Point, Greensboro and Winston-Salem, N. C., Baltimore, New York, New Haven, Providence, Boston and Montreal before returning home.

Nervous Pains Yield to Capudine

The cause of nearly all pain is high nerve strain. Headaches, women's pains, neuralgic pains and pains in the back and sides are the cry of overtaxed nerves for rest. The use of Capudine gives quick and delightful relief from these pains because it soothes the tense nerves. Being liquid, it acts almost instantly—much quicker than tablets and powders.

Every man and woman who suffers from nervousness or pain should become acquainted with Capudine. They will find it a most helpful friend. For over 30 years Capudine has given grateful relief to millions. Sold by druggists in 30c and 60c sizes.—(adv.)

DIXIE BOOSTERS WILL BE HOSTS TO LOCAL UNION

Approximately 50 members of the Atlanta chapter of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen and ladies auxiliary will attend the annual convention of the Dixie Boosters Club in Birmingham today, Thursday and Friday. City Councilman H. T. Loeber will be among the Atlantans at the meeting.

Lights Installed.

Installation of the white way on Spring street from Marietta to North avenue is proceeding smoothly and the current will be turned on about August 1, it was stated Tuesday by P. H. Hendricks, city electrician. The white way will have 157 poles.

NEW RCA RADIOLAS

44 and 46

SCREEN-GRID

THE new RCA Screen-Grid Radiotron—a very remarkable advance in vacuum tube design—has made possible the construction of a simplified Radiola receiver of amazingly high efficiency.

The creation of the associated research laboratories of RCA, General Electric and Westinghouse, this new Radiotron of great amplifying power has been for years under test and development. A special circuit had to be devised to make full use of its remarkable capabilities.

The same RCA engineers who developed the tube, and then the circuit, have now designed Radiolas 44 and 46 to make the most efficient use of the Screen-Grid Radiotron in radio receivers operated with alternating current.

The new Radiolas utilize only five vacuum tubes—three of which are Screen-Grid Radiotrons. There is also employed a new power-amplifying Radiotron, with capacity for much greater volume without distortion.

The beauty of tone achieved in these new Radiolas has never before been possible in receiving sets employing so few tubes, or selling at these prices. The full rich tones of the bass register are a revelation in radio reproduction.

Radiola 44 (table model) is in a compact, two-tone walnut veneer cabinet of graceful design. The console model, Radiola 46, makes use of the finest of all reproducers, the famous RCA Electro-Dynamic Speaker, an integral part of the assembly.

Among the interesting refinements in the new instruments are the concentric, or "two-in-one" tuning and volume control; the special switch to maintain high quality of reproduction for both distant and local stations; and the selector dial graduated for kilocycles, with readings magnified on an illuminated window.

Again—all the world's knowledge of radio in these newest RCA Radiolas—the product of the world's greatest radio research laboratories.

RCA Radiolas and Loudspeakers may be purchased through RCA Radiola Dealers on the convenient RCA Time Payment Plan.

COMMUNITY CHEST BALANCE REDUCED TO NEAR DEADLINE

With a cash balance reduced to $40.02 June 1 and with the necessity of paying more than $27,000 this month for work of its 39 agencies of helplessness and social service, the Atlanta Community Chest faces one of the greatest emergencies of its history, according to a statement by Frank Miller, executive director, accompanying the monthly official audit by H. H. Edison & Co.

The only source of relief, Mr. Miller pointed out, is in prompt payment of pledges by contributors, and these unfortunately have been slower than usual this month. Collections from contributors to June 15, the first half of this month, were only $4,027.

The auditor's report showed receipts in May totaled $20,753.06, which included $15,000 borrowed money. Other items of receipts were: 1927 subscriptions, $18,750; 1928 subscriptions, $490.45; 1929 subscriptions, $14,211.91; dividends on stocks donated, $15; expense refunds, $10.05.

Disbursements included $27,513.82 to member organizations; $1,308.69 on Chest administration; $375 on expenses 1929 campaign; $576.66 on expenses of 1930 campaign; $151.35 interest on borrowed money. The total $29,834.27, an excess of $101.21 of expenses over receipts, in spite of an administration described by business men of the executive committee as the most economical possible.

A summary of the cash balance showed an overdraft of $130.81 in the commercial account, and a credit of $76.93 in the savings account, and $100 in the petty cash fund.

DECATUR COUPLE HELD IN AUGUSTA IN KIDNAPING CASE

Augusta, Ga., June 18.—(P)—Mrs. Lucille Rhodes and William E. Lattin, both said to be of Decatur, Ga., where held here today on a charge of kidnaping a 12-year-old girl inmate from the Gracewood Home for Feeble-Minded Children near here yesterday.

Officers said the man and woman took the girl while she was standing at the front gate of the institution. Officials at the home attempted to stop the car but were outdistanced. They furnished a description immediately to police, and the arrests followed in Graymont, Ga.

The child is said by officers to be a sister of Mrs. Rhodes. Deputy Sheriff Jesse Watkins, who brought the three back to Augusta from Graymont, said Lattin wanted in Atlanta on a charge of stealing the automobile used in the kidnaping.

COLUMBUS BOY WINS EDISON STATE CONTEST

Albert F. Kunze, Jr., Will Go to National Test—Atlanta Youth Alternate.

After a close contest between Albert F. Kunze, Jr., of Columbus, and Reynolds Hudson, of Atlanta, Kunze won the decision of the judging committee in the statewide contest of district winners for the Thomas A. Edison State Contest.

ALBERT F. KUNZE, JR.

son scientific scholarship, which ended at the state capitol at noon Tuesday.

Young Kunze will represent Georgia in the contest with representatives from all the other states in the nation which will be conducted personally by Mr. Edison at his home in West Orange, N. J.

Kunze was picked from a list of 12 boys, each having previously won his congressional district contest. Hudson was named as alternate. The contest between Hudson was a tie in the written and oral tests, and it was necessary for the examining judges to enter a third conference before finally naming the winner. All the boys are Georgia high school students.

The winner was born in Columbus, and received all his schooling there. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. Albert F. Kunze and is 17 years of age. During his high school career he has been the recipient of numerous scholastic honors.

The state board of education will meet here Friday, with Governor Hardman presiding as chairman, and officially certify Kunze as the state's brightest high school boy as the final step toward meeting the requirements set by Mr. Edison for the process of choosing Georgia's candidate for the honor he has offered.

Young Kunze was asked to be present at the board's meeting, but told Dr. M. L. Dugan, state school superintendent, that he would return to his home Tuesday afternoon. Reynolds Hudson, the runner-up, invited Kunze to spend the next three days with him, so as to be here for the board meeting, but this invitation was also declined.

U. S. WILL ALLOT FUNDS TO GEORGIA FOR INSECT WAR

Georgia will receive federal funds for fighting plant diseases and insect pests in ratio to each dollar provided by the state for this purpose, according to a statement made Tuesday by Manning S. Yeomans, state entomologist. Total funds allotted by the federal government are $205,000 as compared to approximately $25,000 provided by the state.

The government will allot the state approximately $75,000 in the fight against the peach disease. Recently the federal government allotted $45,000 for the fight against the Mediterranean fruit fly. An additional allotment of $35,000 was given for the maintenance of a border patrol between Georgia and Florida.

FARM WOMEN'S CLUB ATTENDING COURSE AT ATHENS

Twelve members of the Farm Women's Club are in Athens this week attending special courses in home demonstration work. The delegation from Fulton county is joining with similar delegations from other counties for an intensive training for the summer's work of canning and other housework.

At Miss Wood's office Tuesday it was stated that the Four-H Girls had completed their sewing for exhibition at the Southeastern Fair and next week would work on the same purpose. Beans are now ready for canning, as are blackberries and other berries, and soon the fruit season will be open.

SIGHTLESS SLAYER OF SPOUSE BEGINS LIFETIME TERM

Americus, Ga., June 18.—(Special.) John DeLoach, sentenced to serve a life term at Milledgeville, was carried there from Americus Monday by County Police C. S. Cosby and Lasco Harvey. DeLoach, who killed his wife during a drunken frenzy while in Americus about two months ago, is totally blind and unable to do any kind of work. His blindness, it is said, is the result of drinking poisonous liquor. Buffer Banks, an 11-year-old negro, and Robert Farrell, a white boy, were taken to Milledgeville with DeLoach. Banks and Farrell are each under sentence to serve five years in the Georgia state training school at Milledgeville, having been convicted of burglary charges.

SEWER GAS KILLS FOUR; 3 RESCUERS ARE OVERCOME

Lowell, Mass., June 18.—(P)—Fumes from a manhole killed four men today when they entered it in response to complaints of citizens that sewer gas was escaping from the pit. Three firemen also were overcome and were at a hospital recovering from the effect of the gas which overcame them during attempts to rescue the laborers.

Two Atlantans Bitten by Cat; Rabies Feared

"Dog days," that annually occur during the hot summer months, threaten to become "cat days" and "cow days" as well in Atlanta if the present trend in animal illnesses continues.

Although treating a dog for rabies is just another commonplace in a veterinarian's life, considerable interest was caused Tuesday when Dr. Jesse C. Wright was called to take charge of a cat that had "gone mad." Mrs. H. Wagon, 331 Tenth street, N. E., reported that her harmless pet cat had suddenly turned into a miniature copy of its tiger relatives and had severely bitten two persons before being caged.

Dr. Wright said the animal exhibited all symptoms of rabies, and he is preparing to keep it under observation to check his diagnosis before disposing of it. Meanwhile the two victims of the cat's teeth were taking preventative treatment against possible infection. Mrs. Wagon was bitten on the foot when she noticed the unusual behavior of the animal and tried to quiet it, and a household servant, Anna Zeazy, was bitten on the finger.

An employee of Dr. Wright's animal hospital finally captured the cat with a rope snare and placed it in a basket. It was believed that the cat had been bitten by a dog in the neighborhood. Dr. Wright stated that signs of the disease often do not develop until the animal is in the preliminary stages, although present-day preventative serum are practically infallible, he said.

A cow belonging to J. J. Watkins, of 884 Bankhead road, was bitten by a dog several days ago, and is being treated by the veterinarian, who said that rabies was not likely to develop. Dr. Wright said a number of dogs for symptoms of the disease during the past months.

EPWORTH LEAGUE OF NORTH GEORGIA MEETS AT OXFORD

Oxford, Ga., June 18.—(Special.) The ninth annual assembly of the Epworth League of North Georgia conference, with Dr. E. F. Dismore, presiding elder of the district, and Rev. A. B. Elizer, pastor, as hosts, opened Monday night at the Allen Memorial church with Dr. Charles H. Daniel, president, and Miss Earline Dowd, dean of the assembly. Officers and faculty were introduced, short reports were heard from the officers, and the assembly pledge was presented. The evening address by Rev. K. Z. Tyler, pastor of Grace church, Atlanta, his subject being, "The Four-Square Life," completed the program.

The mornings will be spent in study of the different subjects outlined in the program; the afternoons in rest and recreation. Miss Jean Ragdale, director of recreation, is absent at this session, but her place is filled by Mrs. W. B. Coleman. Miss Ragdale is teaching at the normal school in Ellijay. Rev. J. W. Veach, vice-president, also is absent, teaching at the pastors' school in Oklahoma City.

RELIEVED HER BAD HEADACHES

Kentucky Lady Suffered If She Traveled or Worked Too Hard.

Science Hill, Ky.—"My husband and I both use Black-Draught, and have for about ten or twelve years," says Mrs. W. M. Foster, of this place.

"I used to have very severe, sick headaches, especially if I took a trip, or worked too hard. These headaches would last about two days and nights, leaving me nervous and weak for some days."

"I found that if I would begin taking Black-Draught—a few doses—I would get relief in a few hours."

"Black-Draught seemed to act so well, relieving me of the bloated and uncomfortable feeling after meals."

"I cannot say enough for Black-Draught. It relieves constipation, and is an all-around good medicine."

Thedford's Black-Draught has been found to relieve sick headache in thousands of cases that were due to constipation or biliousness.

Containing no mineral drugs, it acts gently, helping the organs to drive out the poisons and regain a normal state of healthy activity.

Exiled Leader of Soviet Red Armies Reported Planning New Effort.

Berlin, June 18.—(United News.)—An unconfirmed Telegrapher Union dispatch from Constantinople tonight said Leon Trotsky, exiled leader of the soviet red armies, will apply for permission to enter the United States.

The dispatch asserted that Trotsky, who once lived in New York before his rise to power in bolshevik ranks, will ask the American Federation of Labor to support his application.

The dispatch said that if the federation obtains permission from the state department at Washington for Trotsky to enter the United States, the former red leader will formally apply to the United States consulate at Constantinople for a passport.

Trotsky has made advances towards various European countries, including Germany, Sweden and Great Britain, in a futile effort to obtain permission to establish residence where he may write and have proper medical attention.

He was permitted to leave his place of exile in Siberia last winter and went immediately to Constantinople, where he has been since that time.

Trotsky, if admitted to the United States, plans to resume publication of the New York newspaper, Novy Mir, which he published in 1914, the Telegrapher Union dispatch said.

MISS WAITE AND MR. COCKS WED AT EVENING CEREMONY

Marriage Is Solemnized At North Avenue Church

A wedding of wide interest to society and to hosts of friends in Georgia, Virginia and Maryland was that of Miss Helen Brice Wayt to David Francis Cocks, of Atlanta, which was solemnized at 7:30 o'clock last evening at the North Avenue Presbyterian church. The Rev. Richard Orme Flinn, D. D., pastor, performed the ceremony. The church was exquisitely decorated with palms and ferns and large candelabra. Tall floor baskets holding gladioli and white roses marked the pews for the family and close friends. Stately palms and ferns formed the background at the altar, which was started with pedestals holding Easter lilies, alternating with tall branched candelabra, holding white tapers. Preceding the entrance of the bride party, Joseph Ragan, organist, rendered a program of music including "Dawn," the "Wedding Song," "Extose," "Scherzo-Pastorale" and "Romance Sans Paroles." During the ceremony the strains of "Oh Promise Me" were played, and the bridal chorus from "Lohengrin" was rendered for the processional, while Mendelssohn's march from a "Midsummer Night's Dream" was played for the recessional.

Bridal Party. The four bridesmaids were Miss Lida Mell and Miss Mary Floding, of Atlanta; Miss Virginia Taylor Poor, of Baltimore, Md., and Miss Helen Douglas, of Berkeley, Cal. They wore chiffon gowns in pastel shades of blue, pink, green and peach, cut low in the back with uneven hemline dipping in the back, and large butterfly bows of the material, and carried large bouquets of mixed garden flowers tied with ribbons in pastel colors. The maids of honor were Miss Helen Barnett, of Atlanta, and Miss Lois Gardner, of Marietta, Ga., and they wore gowns similar to the bridesmaids' in orchid and pale yellow. They carried bouquets of garden flowers tied with matching ribbon. The flower girl was the small niece of the bride, and the ring bearer was the daughter of the groom, both of Mr. and Mrs. William C. McBeth, little Miss Harriet McBeth. She wore a pink crepe frock trimmed with pink and blue ribbons, and carried a small old-fashioned bouquet of pink roses.

The best man was John M. Heath, and the groomsmen were Ralph R. Bardwell, Jr., Howard Cutler, Jr., Thaddeus Rogers, Lyman Hilliard and Orrin Vogel. The ushers were John A. Wayt, brother of the bride, Judge Anton Lee Etheridge, Allan Warren Clapp and Lewis Packard Rosser, Jr. The bride was radiantly lovely in an ivory satin robe de style gown trimmed with a bertha of real Brussels lace. Her tulle veil fell over a square train, and was caught with orange blossoms to a cap of real lace made from priceless lace and a heirloom in the bride's family. Her only jewelry was an antique Florentine heart pendant of diamonds over blue enamel. She entered the church with her father, John Chiles Wayt, by whom she was given in marriage.

Wesley W. M. S. Serves Lunch.

The W. M. S. of the Wesley Memorial church will serve lunch at the church lunch room Wednesday, June 13, between 11:30 and 2 o'clock.

Miss Ashe And Richard F. Hill Are Honored

Mr. and Mrs. Matravers Ashe entertained at a buffet supper last evening at their home on Oakridge avenue at East Lake, in honor of their daughter, Miss Virginia Ashe and Richard Francis Hill, Jr., and the members of their bridal party, for the rehearsal at St. Luke's church. Garden flowers decorated the reception apartments and the lace-covered table in the dining room was graced with a basket filled with garden flowers, rose color predominating the floral arrangement. Silver candelsticks, held rose tapers, and the other appointments were in this exquisite shade.

Miss Ashe was gowned in blue chiffon, and Miss Ashe wore blue chiffon, and a shoulder bouquet of valley lilies and pink roses. Mrs. Jack Sotherland, of New York city, sister of the bride, assisted in receiving and wore a gown of black chintilly lace, velvet and other sister, was gowned in green chiffon. Mrs. R. F. Hill, of Kingston, N. C., mother of the groom, wore a gown of black chintilly lace, velvet and other sister, was gowned in green chiffon. The guests included Mr. and Mrs. Jack Sotherland, of New York city; Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Hill, and Miss Charlotte Hill, of Kingston, N. C.; Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Rogers, Mrs. Martha Butterworth, Misses Thelma Dunn, Nan Inglis, Arthur Hays, Gilbert Ashe, Monroe Ashe, and Lyman Hilliard.

K. C. Auxiliary Holds Fathers' Day Program.

An event of Sunday evening, was the celebration of fathers' day by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Knights of Columbus at the club house, 1200 Peachtree street, from 6 to 8 o'clock. A beautiful program was given by Mrs. J. W. Davis, soprano, and John Wrigley, tenor, accompanied by Miss Rosina Asmus. Following the program, a buffet supper was served in the spacious hall room of the club. The following committee was in charge of the entertainment: Mrs. C. L. McGowan, Mrs. Mae McAlpin, Mrs. A. P. Aiken, Mrs. J. C. Cronin, Mrs. Stella McFadden, Mrs. Gus Kolb, Mrs. J. Vaske, Mrs. John McGrath, Mrs. J. C. Collins, Miss Agnes Thompson and Miss Callie Flynn.

The public is invited.

Atlanta D. A. R. Celebrates Flag Day.

The Atlanta chapter, D. A. R., commemorated Flag Day at the meeting held Saturday at the chapter house. Mrs. Eli Thomas, the newly-elected regent, presided at the meeting and read a short history of the D. A. R., and reports were heard from the new officers, including Mrs. Thomas C. Mell, first vice regent; Mrs. A. R. McMillan, second vice regent; Mrs. Forest M. Barfield, recording secretary; Mrs. McWhorter, corresponding secretary; Mrs. John Rice, treasurer; Miss Hazel Kirk, registrar; Mrs. L. W. Rogers, librarian; Mrs. O. H. Wright, historian; Mrs. Thomas Morgan, auditor and Rev. R. N. High Moor, pastor of St. Luke's Episcopal church, chaplain. John T. Boileau, historian and writer on The Journal, was the speaker of the afternoon. Proceeding Mrs. Boileau's address, Mrs. Lucius McConnell, attended by Miss Rebecca Young and Miss Frances Snipes, as pages, bore the flag down the hall and standing before the regent's table led in repeating the D. A. R. pledge to the flag. Mrs. Adams, of Decatur, beautifully sang "The Star-Spangled Banner." Mr. Boileau stated that it was the 152nd anniversary of the flag, it having been adopted by the Continental congress on June 14, 1777. He declared that "The Stars and Stripes will live as long as our civilization blesses us with a full appreciation of the benefits of good government and the joys of liberty. The flag speaks in sublime tones to all hearts where love of freedom and devotion to country abide." The loyalty of the southern people to the flag which floats over them has been attested by the valor they have displayed and the blood they have freely spilt. All Georgians rejoice that one of the 13 original stars on the flag sparkles to the proud name of their glorious state, and that there is a stripe of red symbolizing the valor of her people, a stripe of white typifying their purity, and a field of blue exemplifying their justice.

The hall was decorated in flowers in hues of the national colors, arranged by Mrs. H. Lane Young, flower chairman, and her committee. Big floor jardiniere filled with red gladioli were placed at intervals with smaller bowls of blue jaspure and shasta daisies on the tables. Several visitors who gave a word of greeting included Mrs. John A. Keating, regent of the San Francisco chapter, who 25 years ago was a member of the Atlanta chapter and who expressed her pleasure at being present in the chapter house; Mrs. E. L. Gunn, Jr., of the Jacksonville chapter; Mrs. Hattie Head, of Griffin. Refreshments were served from the tea table by Mrs. P. D. McCarley, house chairman, and her committee.

Woman's Division C. of C. Gives Tea.

An interesting tea-dance was given by the Woman's Division, Chamber of Commerce, at the Druid Hills Golf Club on Monday evening. A large group of members and guests assembled on the terrace. Miss Regina Corrigan, chairman of the forum committee, introduced Miss Margaret B. Ratte and Charles W. Wynne, who rendered a beautiful program of songs. Miss Battle acting as pianist. Mrs. L. Irving Turner, the president of the Woman's Division, announced that she is leaving soon to spend the month of July in Texas, motoring through to Dallas, Houston and other points. She will be accompanied by her son, Irving, Jr.

Legislative Council of Georgia Hears Report at Thursday Meet

Report of the nominating committee will feature the meeting Thursday, June 20, of the Women's Legislative Council of Georgia, which was reorganized Thursday, June 6, with a view to prevent overlapping of legislative effort by the various state organizations. The meeting Thursday will be held at 10 o'clock in the Second Baptist church, on Washington street. At the reorganization meeting the nominating committee was appointed, a temporary chairman was elected and the legislative program for 1923 discussed.

The council, which includes as voters one member from each state organization in Georgia, usually the president or legislative chairman, plans to meet each Thursday morning during the legislative session and to spend an hour in the study of important progressive legislation, as well as to follow the progressive measures as they pass through the legislative mill. Presidents and legislative chairmen of the various state organizations are urged to attend. The meetings are open to all socially minded women.

Those visiting Atlanta from various sections of the state are invited to drop in informally and take back home to the voters authentic information on all legislative subjects. This legislative council has been more or less active since 1921, its object being to enable state organizations to unite their efforts. The council as a body does not endorse or work for legislation, but through it information is obtained and disseminated, and careful study and consideration is given to progressive measures.

Knights of Columbus Plan Informal Dance.

A social event of the week-end will be the informal dance given by the Knights of Columbus at the Columbian hall, 1200 Peachtree street, N. E., in honor of their baseball team. Music for the occasion will be furnished by the "Dominos," one of Atlanta's most popular dance orchestras.

Miss Alice Offutt Weds Karl Johnson Saturday, July 20

Plans for the wedding of Miss Alice Eleanor Offutt, daughter of Mrs. Etta W. Offutt, to Karl Gunnar Johnson, are of interest. The marriage will be solemnized at 7 o'clock Saturday evening, July 20, at the home of the Rev. W. H. Boggs, 1024 Ponce de Leon avenue. The Rev. Mr. Boggs will perform the ceremony in the presence of a gathering of relatives and friends.

Miss Offutt will be given in marriage by her mother, Mrs. Etta W. Offutt. Miss Lillian Offutt, sister of the bride-elect, who will act as maid-of-honor, will be her only attendant. Herman Johnson, cousin of the groom-elect, will be the best man.

Following the ceremony the young couple will leave for a wedding trip to Havana, Cuba. Upon their return they will make their home on Hurst drive, Peachtree Heights.

SLAYER OF WATCHMAN SENTENCED TO DEATH

Macon, Ga., June 18.—(AP)—James Barker, negro, slayer of C. H. Oxley, aged night watchman of the Bibb Basket Company, late today was found guilty in superior court of first degree murder, and sentenced to die in the electric chair.

It was the second death sentence imposed by Judge H. A. Mathews, of the Macon court, during the day. A verdict of guilty without recommendation makes it incumbent on the presiding judge to impose the death sentence. Barker was sentenced to die on August 14.

Earl Mauchester, 19-year-old white boy, received the death sentence earlier in the day, on the same date. Barker has been tried three times within the last six weeks. Mr. Oxley was killed by the negro on the night of February 20 when the night watchman was about to apprehend him in the act of robbing the office of the basket firm.

Barker was indicted by the April term grand jury, and placed on trial during the first week of May. The jury was unable to agree on a verdict, and Judge Mathews, in a verdict, declared a mistrial. Solicitor Charles H. Garrett set the case for a second trial on May 15, a week later. The second jury found the negro guilty and failed to recommend him. He was sentenced to the electric chair.

Attorneys representing Barker, filed motion for a new trial, charging that Judge Mathews omitted a principal part of his charge to the jury. It was an unintentional omission, it was pointed out. Judge Mathews granted a new trial.

A motion for a fourth trial probably will be filed tomorrow, though no announcement came from attorneys.

OKLAHOMA SOLONS CONSIDER CENSURE OF HOOVER PARTY

Oklahoma City, June 18.—(AP)—A resolution censuring Mrs. Herbert Hoover, wife of the president, for entertaining the wife of Oscar De Priest, negro member of congress from Illinois, at a White House tea, was considered by the Oklahoma house of representatives today.

The resolution was introduced yesterday by Ferman Phillips, 21, the youngest member of the house.

G. O. P. CANDIDATE WINS MINNESOTA PLACE IN HOT RACE

Minneapolis, June 18.—(AP)—Despite the strongest democratic challenge for many years, the fifth Minnesota congressional district stayed in the republican column Monday when the election of Lieutenant Governor W. L. Nolan, to succeed Representative Walter Newton, resigned.

Closely contesting Nolan was Einar Hoidal, democrat, whose showing was regarded as marking a renaissance for the party in the district where the farmer-labor party has held second place in recent years. Ernest Lundeen, who served in congress as a republican prior to joining the farmer-labor party, trailed in the race with a number of leaders of his party openly supporting Hoidal.

Republicans campaigned to make the vote an indicator of confidence in the Hoover farm program.

Senator Charles Adams, of Duluth, president pro tem of the state senate, will succeed Nolan as lieutenant governor. Nolan was a member of state legislative bodies for 22 years. He was actively engaged as a professional lecturer for 25 years.

New Diver's Mark Set by Navy Men With Special "Lungs"

Washington, June 18.—(AP)—A new mark for divers has been established by two navy torpedo men who, equipped only with mechanical "lungs" to permit breathing under water, withstood a pressure of 155 pounds in a specially constructed diving tank.

This pressure is equivalent to a depth of 353 feet, which compares with the mark of 306 feet reached in actual diving by navy men in helmets and diving suits in 1916 while salvaging the American submarine F-4, off Honolulu.

Chief Torpedomen Kolinovsky and Hoy, who underwent the latest tests, suffered no ill effects. The "lung" is the navy's new submarine escape device.

BURGESS CHILDREN'S STORIES

Mr. Wren Solves the Mystery.

By Thornton W. Burgess.

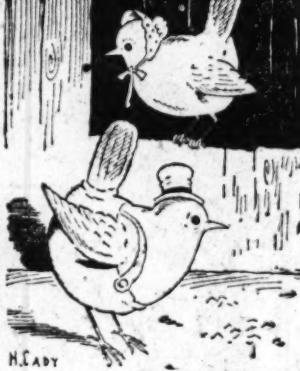

Pray cultivate the open mind.

And to the truth be never blind.

—Mr. Wren.

Jenny Wren had forgotten all about the House Centipede she had twice tried to catch in the shed back of Farmer Brown's house. The first time she had succeeded in merely pulling off one long leg. The second time she pulled off two legs.

She was reminded of it, however,

"Well, we can't stop and listen to those legs any longer!"

when Mr. Wren came bringing a House Centipede which he had caught in the shed. "Did you ever see anything with so many long legs?" he asked.

"Yes," she said. "That is exactly like that queer insect I tried to catch and told you about. Where did you get it?"

"In the shed," replied Mr. Wren. "Well," said Jenny. "I don't think the children will like all those legs."

"Then we'll pull them off," replied Mr. Wren.

So they pulled off the long legs, killed the Centipede and fed it to one of the babies. "Listen!" said Jenny. "Do you remember that funny little squeak in the shed when we couldn't find any insect anywhere around?"

"Of course," replied Mr. Wren. "Mr. Wren, who was sitting with his head cocked to one side. 'I hear it this instant.'"

"So do I," said Jenny. "Both sat with their heads cocked to one side. You know the ears of birds are very keen. They can hear what you and I might not be able to hear. The tiny squeak that would sound very faint to you and me would be much more easily heard by Jenny Wren. Just now she was hearing not one squeak often repeated, but many squeaks."

"Look at those legs!" said Mr. Wren suddenly. "One might think they were alive the way they are kicking."

Jenny looked at the legs they had pulled from the House Centipede. All those legs were kicking, just as if they were alive. Just then Mr. Wren flew down close to one of them and cocked his head to one side. Then he hopped over to another and did the same thing. There was a funny expression on his face as he looked up at Jenny Wren. "My dear," said he, "here are your squeaking insects."

"What do you mean?" Jenny asked. "I mean that it is these legs that are making the squeaking that we thought was made by insects," replied Mr. Wren.

"Who ever heard of such a thing?" cried Jenny.

"All the same, it is true," replied Mr. Wren. "Come listen to one of these legs yourself."

Jenny did. Then it was her turn to have a funny expression as she looked at Mr. Wren. She hopped over to a leg that had stopped kicking and listened. There was no little squeak. "You are right, my dear," said she. "I remember now that when I saw that queer fellow in the shed and tried to catch him, I pulled off three of his legs. I got one the first time and the second time, and both times I noticed those kicking legs and heard the squeaking. It's a queer performance. Well, we can't stop and listen to these legs any longer; the babies are crying for food."

She spread her wing and off she went and Mr. Wren followed. Now that the mystery was solved, they no longer had any interest in it.

And the mystery was solved, for the House Centipede does have legs that squeak after they are pulled off. They kick and squeak and so draw the attention of a possible enemy away from their owner, who thus has a chance to escape. You know there is a lizard who throws off part of his tail, which twists and wiggles and thrashes about while its owner escapes.

By Accurate Record, 98 Out of 100 Women Who Report After Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Say That It Has Helped Them

THERE are three trying periods in a woman's life: when the girl matures to womanhood; when a woman gives birth to her first child; when a woman reaches middle age. At these times Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound helps to restore normal health and vigor. Countless thousands testify to its worth.

FLORENCE BURNETT
12 Withington Street, Dorchester, Mass.

"My daughter Florence is 14 years old and has been very sick for the last two years, able to attend school only half of the time. I saw an ad. in the Boston Post and decided to give her Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. She has taken four bottles and is so much better. She is rather tall for her age and her appetite has improved and she is better in every way. I thought I would let you hear from us as we are nearer than those who live in the West. I shall be glad to help any mother who writes to me."—Mrs. Burnett, 12 Withington Street, Dorchester, Massachusetts.

MRS. CORA CALAHAN
216 E. Ashton Ave., Grand Island, Neb.

"I am a married woman going through the Change of Life. At times I thought I would lose my mind. I would cry for hours. I got so tired of going to the doctor so I thought 'So many women have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I will try some.' Before I had taken the first bottle I began to get better. I have taken eight bottles now. I feel that it has saved my life, also doctor's bills. I work for a family of six, washing, cooking and do all my own work. People say I look like I am 25 years old."—Mrs. Cora Calahan, 216 E. Ashton Ave., Grand Island, Nebraska.

MRS. F. C. HELMING
822 E. Harrison St., Portland, Oregon

"Lydia E. Pinkham did for me what doctors failed to do. When the Change of Life began I was very poorly. Now at fifty-five years of age I do all my own work, attend two dances a week and it is hard to make people believe I am over forty. I never see a woman in ill health but I advocate your medicine because I know its value. Every woman should take it at the critical age, not just for a month or two but until they know they have passed the critical period."—Mrs. F. C. Helming, 822 E. Harrison St., Portland, Oregon.

Miss Gooch Is Named Director Of National Playwriting Contest

Miss Frances K. Gooch, head of the spoken English department of Agnes Scott college, has again been named director for Georgia of the Drama League-Loungmans Green playwriting contests for 1929. Three of the national contests in playwriting conducted by the Drama League of America and the play department of Longmans, Green and Company for the past two years will be conducted this year, according to announcement by Miss Gooch, the contests to be as follows:

I. Full-Length Play—Must be full-length in construction, but may have any number of acts or scenes; any theme may be treated and in any manner.

II. One-Act Christmas Play—Must be one-act in construction; theme must be appropriate to Christmas performance, but need not be Biblical.

III. Religious Play—Must be full-length, or pageant in construction; theme must be ethical but need not be based on incidents of either Old or New Testament; treatment must be wholly non-sectarian. Modern ethical plays are greatly encouraged.

Rules of Contest.

The rules governing the contests are as follows:

1. Plays may be either original or the dramatization of an American story, with all rights owned by the author, and the play must not have been previously published or produced professionally.

2. The treatment may be in any manner—burlesque, farce, comedy, drama, melodrama, tragedy or mystery. But neither material nor treatment may be offensive to good taste.

3. One-act plays should require from 20 to 40 minutes to perform; full-length plays, from two to two and one-half hours.

4. Each play must be typewritten on one side of the sheet, fastened together and must be accompanied by name and address of author, together with return registered postage, in sealed envelope attached.

5. Authors must send manuscripts of full-length and one-act plays to their respective state centers without comment. But all religious plays must be sent direct to contest chairman, 828 Michigan avenue, Wilmette, Ill.

6. Each state center will formulate its own rules for conducting its contest, subject to the rules here given. The five best manuscripts of each of the state contests not later than February 15, 1930, and send it to the National Judges, Drama League of America, Chicago, Ill.

7. The national judges will select the winning play of each of the contests not later than April 15, 1930.

8. The three winning plays will be produced and published the following year, according to the conditions stated under the contests and the conditions constituting the terms of contest.

Atlanta Child's Home Benefits From Recital

The pupils of the Virginia Semon-Leonard White studio will hold the first annual recital this evening at 8:15 o'clock at Atlanta Woman's Club, given for the benefit of the Atlanta Child's Home. Tickets are on sale at the Atlanta Child's Home office, also at Semon-White studio, 805 Spring street. They will go on sale at the Woman's Club Wednesday morning; a charge of 50 cents general admission.

Miss Semon has put on several successful productions—Kiddies Follies at the Howard theater, Minnie's Minstrels at the Capitol theater, and Kiddies Dreamland. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mary Semon and her productions have been styled the finest throughout the southern cities. She has spent much time studying in the studios of New York.

Mr. White, a former member of the Metropolitan opera, of New York city, will appear in the recital. His first characterization will be that of the old man shopkeeper and doll-maker in the first number on the program, "The Doll Shop."

Mr. White is well equipped for this work after several years' experience with the opera company, where he appeared in many roles which required the most expert workmanship in the art of make-up and mimeography. Mr. White will appear in two other numbers on this program, the most outstanding being the "Schubert Ballerina," in which girls will dance with Mr. White. The number, a soft-shoe dance, done by the business girls' class of the Semon-White studio, will be headed by Mr. White.

Seventy-five pupils will take part in all types of dancing, to acrobatic, tap, and character, and character. The studio will have the cripple children of the different homes in Atlanta, also the Home of the Friendless as guests at a special performance Wednesday afternoon at 2:15 o'clock.

Miss Cohen Weds Sam Gordon.

Of interest to a host of friends is the marriage of Miss Minnie Cohen to Sam Gordon, which was solemnized Sunday evening at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Cohen.

The house was decorated for the occasion, with baskets holding pasted-shaded flowers, and improvised altar with tall palms with effective lighting by arranged in the reception room of the home. Placed on either side of the altar were seven-branched candelabra holding burning white tapers.

The ceremony was performed by Rabbi H. H. Epstein, and Rabbi Tobias A. Gelman, cantor at the synagogue. Following the ceremony, MacDowell's "A Wild Rose" was played by Miss Gladys Saul, pianist, and Joseph Glazer, violinist.

The bride party entered to the strains of the Lohengrin wedding march. Miss Etta Cohen, sister of the bride, and her only attendant, acted as maid-of-honor. She was gowned in pale blue chiffon, and a shoulder corsage of Ophelia roses.

The lovely bride entered with her father, by whom she was given in marriage. She was met at the altar by the groom and his best man, Dave Gordon. The bride was beautifully costumed in a gown of orchid chiffon, trimmed in ribbons, and carried a bouquet with a draped skirt of uneven hemline. She wore an orchid picture hat and satin slippers of the same shade. Her exquisite bouquet was of bride roses and valley lilies.

Following the ceremony the bride's parents entertained at an informal dinner and reception. During the evening the bride and bridegroom left for a motor trip to Asheville, N. C. The bride's traveling costume was an ensemble of tan crepe with accessories to match. Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon will make their home in Cumming, Ga. Among the guests attending the wedding were: Mrs. J. Cohen and daughters, of Miami, Fla.; Mr. and Mrs. Sam Cohen and daughter, of Cedarhurst, N. Y.; Mrs. Dave Gordon, of Buford; Mrs. L. Witt, of Henderson, Ky.; Miss Minnie Sacks, of Gainesville, Ga.; Mrs. David Cowan, of Miami, Fla.; and Joe Goldman, of Dallas.

Miss Elliott and Mr. Jackson Wed at Quiet Home Ceremony

Miss Stella Elliott became the bride of Joseph Frank Jackson at a lovely ceremony solemnized at 8:30 o'clock last evening at the home of the bride on Hudson drive. The marriage service was read before an improvised altar in the living room by the Rev. L. Wilkie Collins, a small assemblage of friends and relatives witnessing the ceremony.

Graceful ferns interspersed with cathedral candelabra holding white burning tapers and tall wicker baskets of cut flowers formed a very effective background for the wedding party. Preceding the ceremony Miss Ruth Blackwood sang Victor Herbert's "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life" and "For Love's Own Sake," accompanied at the piano by Miss Kate Hay.

During the ceremony "The Melody of Love" was played softly. The bride party entered to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march.

Entering the living room first was Miss Thelma Elliott, sister of the bride and maid of honor. She was gowned in blue chiffon with uneven hemline. She wore a corsage of delicate pink roses.

The ring bearer, little Virginia Bennett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Claude S. Bennett, preceded the bride. She wore a pink frock of crepe de chine trimmed with ruffles and ribbons and carried the ring in a large white lily.

The bride entered with her brother, J. W. Elliott, by whom she was given in marriage. They were met at the altar by the groom and his best man, Paul Cooke.

The girlish beauty of the bride was enhanced by her wedding gown of white chiffon with uneven hemline. She carried a bouquet of bride roses.

Dr., Mrs. Giddings Honor Miss Orme And Mr. Healey

Honoring Miss Callie Orme and William T. Healey, whose marriage will be a forthcoming event of social interest, Dr. and Mrs. Giddings entertained at supper last evening at their home in DuRoi Hills, and the guests included a group of friends of the hostess and honor guests.

The light, airy atmosphere of summer was evident in the exquisite decorations. The individual tables, which were overlaid with organdie in the pastel shades of pink, blue and green, were posed over silver cloth, were ornamented with crystal, with swansons and sweet peas, surrounded at artistic intervals with crystal candelsticks tied with tulle bows in corresponding shades. The bride-elect's table, which was appointed in crystal and silver, was overlaid with white organdie over silver cloth and offset with a lovely crystal and silver epergne filled with white Queen Anne lace, scabiosa, swansons and sweet peas, surrounded with silver candelsticks holding slender white tapers tied with bows of white tulle shot with silver.

Mrs. Giddings was gowned in green chiffon trimmed with silver. Miss Orme wore a gown of blue chiffon and her shoulder bouquet was of orchids.

Mrs. Herman Cohen, of Dallas, Texas, is visiting her sister, Mrs. S. A. Visanska and Mrs. M. L. Hirsch.

Miss Ashton Weds Philip Edgar Kelly.

The wedding of Miss Ella Marie Ashton to Philip Edgar Kelly was solemnized Saturday evening, June 15, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George E. Ashton, in Sylvan Hills. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Raimundo de Ories, dean of St. Philip's cathedral, in presence of a large assemblage of relatives and friends.

Miss Thelma Ashton, of Macon, cousin of the bride, was her maid of honor. Little Miss Betty Huchak was flower girl. Little Rudolph Ashton, Jr., nephew of the bride, acted as ring bearer.

The bride entered with her father, who gave her in marriage. Her blonde beauty was enhanced by the bridal gown of white satin and Chinchilla lace, which was fashioned bouffant style with a scalloped uneven hemline. A soft silk tulle veil was caught in cap effect to her head beneath a bandeau of orange blossoms. She carried an arm bouquet of bride's roses from which fell a shower of valley lilies and white satin ribbons. She was met at the altar by the groom and his best man, Cecil Watson.

During the evening Mr. and Mrs. Kelly left for a motor trip to Savannah, Tybee, St. Simons. Upon their return they will be at home with the bride's parents in Sylvan Hills.

You can depend on an Oboy grocer!

The grocer who handles Oboy Bread has a high standing in his community. His products are the finest and purest that he can get. His choice of the bread he sells you is proof of that.

The next time you're in his store, ask him about Oboy. He'll tell you how immaculately clean it is—that it contains only the most nutritious flour—how an exclusive system of baking gives it a tempting, teasing flavor that's new. Then buy a loaf and prove it to yourself. Serve it sliced for dinner and toasted for breakfast. The family will "eatup."

THE UNKISSED BRIDE

By BERTA RUCK

SYNOPSIS.
Joy Harrison, living in London and working for Dr. Rex Travers in Harley street, is crushed by a letter from her fiancé, Geoffrey Ford, a well-known novelist, asking to be released from the engagement. Travers, who has just lost a great deal of money through an unscrupulous solicitor and he will be forced to give up his house in Harley street.

Dr. Locke, a tenant, tells Rex that he has just been offered a practice with a comfortable villa in the south of France which he cannot take on, and he suggests that he recommend Rex for it. The only hitch in the plan is that they want a married doctor and Rex is a bachelor. The partner's suggestion that he marry and take up the new post Rex turns a deaf ear to.

INSTALLMENT XXV. THE TEA PARTY.

By tea time Madame Jeanne's gold-pink flower drawing room was as overcrowded with people as it had once been overcrowded with ornaments.

The count and his sister brought friends with them from the Provencal. The Hungarian family brought friends from the Tennis Club.

The Fords—the guests of the afternoon—brought the boy friend off a yacht at Cannes; Mrs. Ford's latest admirer, who could—and was presently made to—play jazz—that pulse of party spirit.

One woman's tea party is another man's purgatory; so the same social gathering can represent as many separate functions as there are persons present. To Joy Travers her first at home was a test of her quality on two points of pride.

Would it please Rex?
Further, would it convince the Fords that Joy was a thoroughly satisfied and happy woman, fortunate in this marriage that was from every point of view a success?

But when, last of all, the Misses Simpette appeared with their lean brown Indian army colonel, Hay-Molyneux, Joy might have spared herself any further concern about what Mrs. Ford would think about the bride's first party.

The party, to Mrs. Ford, became one of acute emotional fever-and-chills attack of Jim.

Casually as he loped out of her ken there loped back into it this man for whom she had come to France! So these Simpette were the aunts from whom the wretch had expectations! Pansy could have kissed them.

"What; you have met our nephew? I always say, 'The world is small!'"

"Old friends, aren't we, Pansy?"

This should have been Pansy Ford's cue to raise the eyebrows of gayly indifferent surprise ("good heavens, Jim! You've pursued us over here?") and to give him a careless hand, which need scarcely be withdrawn before she turned to continue flirting with the count or to bully the boy friend.

The right note is so easy to strike—when a woman is merely mercenary, is physically undervalued, or is only half-in-love.

Pansy was abjectly glad to see him, and showed it; patting the divan cushions beside her. Down he sat; twinking at her. She felt like a girl . . . until he glanced past her at one of the notes and asked who that vision was in white with the big green flower. Jim, whom age could not wither, was preparing to fascinate an authentic girl! Pansy felt helplessly passive, with jumper frock and hat too frantically young. New lines began to form under her make-up.

What for her was an afternoon of suffering was to the Misses Simpette quite the neatest party they had attended during the years they had vegetated abroad among the nicer English.

They were at first a trifle taken aback to find dear little Mrs. Travers surrounded by such a crowd of foreigners (these English ladies always alluded thus to any continental they chanced to encounter on the continent). Still, they seemed quite the nicer sort. Miss Simpette always said the ones with titles seemed more like ourselves. Still, a person she really enjoyed meeting was that delightful young Mr. Ford. So good looking. Such charming boyish manners. To think that he was the writer of that dreadful book that had come (by mistake) in the Simpette's Times book Club. The Trap. Really, it had made both the Miss Simpette so angry that they nearly stopped reading it. Only they had to see what the author would say next! It might all have been made up by some horrid skeptical old man, embittered because he could not win any woman's heart.

"No, you may think you're one of these hardened cynics, Mr. Ford," twittered the thin Miss Simpette, "but wait until the right young lady comes along. Then you will see what becomes of these theories, won't be, dear Mrs. Travers?"

"Shall I?" Geoffrey responded willingly. He turned toward his hostess to include her in the discussion. Joy only gave him a bright "I expect so!" and turned to another guest.

To Geoffrey the party was a brick wall dividing him from what he wanted. Namely, to find out all about Joy. "Here she is quite looking the part," thought he, "but in what a terrible house. Like a lady's padded basket! Seems to be money here! She enjoys running a show; she would. Boy of the house trotting about for her the pretty page touch. When does the husband appear? Tiresome of her to have this mob when I wanted a long explanatory talk." Fuming at the disappointment, he put forth his usual, well paragraphed boyish charm towards the withered specimen to whom he had been introduced.

"Miss Simpette, won't you tell me how one recognizes the right young lady?"

"And then," as Miss Annie Simpette smiled delightedly later, "he pulled a big cushion down from the divan and sat at my feet and talked and talked and talked . . ."

"My God, these English drolls," thought the French count's sister. She had not consorted as much as had her brother with the Anglo-Saxon races, and to her, who knew only the festivities of Brittany and Paris, this party was an afternoon's exploration into something as strange as the primed lap of Madame Jeanne's sofa, plumped her mouth, and let her surprised eyes rove like two blue butterflies about the gathering and the room.

She noted its English rearrangements (irregularities, she called them), every chair in the wrong place. Every silver framed photograph, every vase just where a French mistress of a house would put a photograph of no flowers. And where she would put things, nothing. Every window open; it mattered not that there entered all the warmth, the dust, the motor noise of outside. Every window wide open, noted the baroness.

She noted the rites of the sacred British table. And these serious expressions of faces saying—rather strong, please! . . . "O, thanks, that's just as I like it . . . delicious tea." . . . Such a ceremony the English (who seem otherwise ceremonious) made of these libations? They (so well known to have no sense of the art of love) then have of the art of love? They were fanatical about their one important meal of tea?

Perhaps, then (she mused hardily), even in the art of love they possess some speciality? Interesting speculation.

Then, and particularly, she noted this little young English bride, Madame Travers. Her frock, too unimportant for the occasion, but pretty enough. . . . Her pale-colored stockings . . . her diamond ring . . . her cool freshness . . . her air of being at 20 less developed, less self-conscious than any French jeune fille of 13. . . . Her no rouge on the mouth . . .

She noted that Madame Travers was being admired, and quite unceremoniously! But this elegant romancer who made the Bohemian sitting on the carpet talking for all to listen.

She noted, however, that the bride thought no more anxiously of this fated young celebrity than she thought of the boy-nephew, the "Tontou," who made the waiter with toasts.

She noted the English lady, so chic even at 47 or 48, to whom was making eyes the young English lad at the piano.

She noticed that the lady she preferred, that long, dry, distinguished, coquet English officer. "Type to make women unhappy," the French woman mentally dismissed Colonel Hay-Molyneux.

Her butterfly-blue eyes then returned to that little young, young Madame Travers, so busily making the hostess, the amiable, the mistress of the house. Here she had indeed found something upon which to speculate. Yes, it was something about this bride that caused the shrewdly observant French woman to breathe her most fervent aside of "My God, these English drolls!" (Continued tomorrow.)

PLAYOFF PUTS YOUTH SAFELY IN TITLE PLAY

Gunn and Hudson Short;
Spicer Medalist at Belle Meade.

By Dick Hawkins.
Nashville, Tenn., June 18.
Just as dusk was falling over the Belle Meade course today the Belle Meade course today little Berrien Moore threw his slight shadow across the picture of the southern amateur championship when he dropped a long putt for a four to win the last place in the seven-man playoff for the championship honors.

The beautiful 60 made by Emmet Spicer earlier in the day was momentarily forgotten as these seven 50-shooters set out at dusk in a march that meant three of them could not play in the championship. Johnny Bachman, sturdy Rome youth, was the first to fall out of the picture when he took a seven on the first hole.

ON OUTSIDE.
That left five and little Berrien was among them. Don Harris, of Birmingham, clinched his opportunity by taking the only par four in the lot on the initial hole. All of them halved the short second, then Frank Fire, diminutive sporting goods dealer from Nashville, clipped off the only par 4 on the third to take the second place in the select four. Little Berrien was still on the outside.

The fourth was played, then came the narrow fifth. A close off bounds on the right and a deep cliff at the left of the fairway made this hole a difficult test. Berrien was well down the middle and his second was well on. His approach putt was to the right of the hole but he caught the par as darkness fell across the course. Charlie Green, Asheville star, took the fourth place with another par on the last hole. Little Berrien was in the championship play.

Harold Calloway, playing from East Lake, held up his end of the Atlanta burden by taking a second low mark with a beautiful 73 and if Harold continues to play his golf he will figure strongly in the match competition.

Berrien and Calloway were the only Atlantans to enter the circle of championship play. The qualifying rounds were done. Scott Hudson, Will Gunn, Fred Minnich and Elliott Hans all slipped from grace in the medal round.

A FREAK SHOT.
Will Gunn and Scott Hudson, particularly, were expected to reach the championship flight, but both were off their game just enough to fall prey to the fickleness of Belle Meade. Scott was finding trouble with his second shot and Belle Meade brooks no half-way methods. He was out of the greens.

Scott had one hole in his qualifying round that even his terrible 83 will not efface. It was the short sixth which is a fairly simple shot across a wide creek to a sunken green from an elevated tee. Scott spanked his tee shot terribly and it hit the concrete on the near side of the creek, bounced to the bridge far to the right of the green, hit a post and glanced to within 15 feet of the pin. He missed his two by a fraction of an inch. He had a three where a five looked certain.

Will Gunn turned in 39 but exploded like a toy balloon on the home journey to take 42. He exposed the terrible nine holes when he half topped a three-foot putt on the home hole for an 80 which would have put him in the play-off. He had his last days but this was not one of them. Fred Minnich, playing with Harold Calloway also turned with a 39, but took the same 42 coming in. Two out-of-bounds shots helped to swell his score on the back nine.

RECORD GOLF.
Chastain Harris, of Memphis, furnished the great thrill of the day when he took five strokes off par in two holes. He turned the first with a 41, seven strokes over par and gained little until he reached the fourteenth tee. Here he sunk his eagle hook on the par five-hole then set some kind of a world's record by following this eagle with a "double eagle" when he put down his tee shot on the par four fifteenth for a hole in one.

Sentimentalists who have been thrilling to their ear lobes over the sparkling heroics of the Athletics are no doubt looking forward with impatience to the approaching series with the villainous New York Yankees this week-end.

The romantic wing of fandom—meaning those who have been wearing suspenders so long they have come back in style again—can hardly wait until the Athletics get hold of the Yankees. The Macks won three out of five of the early clashes with the hated House of Huggins.

And just you wait, they say! Just wait!

The A's play the Y's at New York Friday, Saturday and Sunday. Just wait!

Remember 1928?
The Clam McGuillcuddy claims all the incurable loyalty left in baseball now and the Huggins bear all the hate. Folks around this vicinity just know the A's will show them their place—second place and no better.

Fans forget. That is why a similar situation that cropped up last year is held as having no bearing whatever on the hostilities at hand. Last year, a bit later in the season, the A's were banging their war drums and brandishing their war clubs just as if they meant to massacre the stumbling Yankees.

However, Miller Huggins had managed to save out all his best pitchers and somehow happened to bring them into the series with the Athletics at top form. The result was a crushing blow to sentiment, and a triumph for wrong.

Hoping, Fearing.
This column, for one, HOPES to goodness the Macks win the approaching set and take the return engagement in Philadelphia next week.

But, having a fair memory, I cannot forget how the A's cracked that time.

I suspect Huggins of being smart. I would not trust him as far as I could throw a park by the turnstile. He is almost certain to have his no-account Yankees in there playing baseball by the time the Mackmen show the whites of their eyes.

Charles Needs Rest.
Fortunately Charlie Black did not enter the southern amateur championship now being waged at Nashville. Charlie became involved with brother Dave in the semi-finals of the governing board trophy at the Capital City Country Club and it took him two or three days to get loose.

They squared at 27 holes and rested a while and went back at each other for 18 more before Charlie could win, 2 and 1.

Charlie will need a week's rest before going down to Radium Springs to play in the state championship. And if brother Dave goes, too, it may take all summer for the brothers to get loose from each other. Charlie hopes to be finished in time to go west for the national amateur in September.

The Turf Standing.
Blue Larkspur remains the outstanding 3-year-old of the season by virtue of finishing fourth in the Kentucky Derby and winning the Withers and Belmont stakes. But the Bradley colt has not yet established a clear claim, racing experts agree.

Windy City, by winning a couple of minor handicaps and capturing the American Derby at Chicago, has entered a sound claim as a contender.

Clyde Van Dusen has fallen back to third place in spite of his victory at Churchill Downs in the mud. The little fellow has replaced the Bradley colt as the season's disappointment.

The champion may not be known until after the running of the Arlington Special, when Blue Larkspur is expected to meet both Windy City and Clyde Van Dusen—not to mention the dangerous Naishapur, that is due to get up one of these days, and Chestnut Oak, beaten by Blue Larkspur by inches in the Withers.

BIG BAM HITS NEAR HOMERS IN BAT DRILL

Anxious To Play, But
Huggins Makes Him
Wait for A's.

By George Kirksey.
New York, June 18.—(United News).—Babe Ruth will be back in the New York Yankee's lineup when they open their crucial five-games-in-three-days series against the league-leading Philadelphia Athletics at Yankee stadium, beginning Friday.

The Babe worked out with the Yankees today, playing first base for a while during fielding practice. He hit two potential home runs during batting practice and wanted to get into the doubleheader against the Red Sox, but Miller Huggins decided against it.

TO PLAY FRIDAY.
"Friday will be soon enough," Huggins said. "That's when we'll need you most."

There were three important developments in the Yankees' pitching situation today. Waite Hoyt, Yankee ace, who has been troubled by a poison ivy infection, is virtually well and will pitch the first game of Friday's double header against the Athletics.

Frank Niekro, Holy Cross college sophomore sensation, for whom the Yankees paid a sum said to be in excess of $20,000 for signing a contract, reported to Miller Huggins. It is considered hardly likely that Niekro, who has been called a second Ed Plank, will get into the Philadelphia series.

Henry Johnson, Yankee right-hander, who beat the Athletics five games last season, will not be available for the Athletics' series because of a strained back.

The loss of Johnson throws the issue right into the lap of Herb Pennock, Huggins commented. "Pennock didn't look so good in his last appearance, but I think he has about regained the full use of his arm and should do some splendid pitching from now on."

PITCHERS READY.
Holt, Wells, Pipgras, Pennock, Heinemann and Zachary are expected to carry the Yankees' pitching burden against the Athletics. Zachary has had a long rest and Huggins expects him to figure prominently in stopping the Athletics. The same is true of Heinemann, a former Athletic, who has lost only one game out of seven this season.

Huggins' system for conning the Mackmen is to bottle up Fox. Simmons and Cochrane—the A's three big sluggers.

"Smart pitching can stop any hitters in a short series," Huggins said. "Our pitchers are certainly going to work on these three players."

Except for the injection of Mousell and Ruth back into the game, there will be no other changes in the New York lineup. Durocher will remain at shortstop and Robertson will continue at third.

The psychological advantage of having Mousell—who broke the Athletics' hearts last September with a home run with the bases filled—and Ruth back in the game is considered so important by betting commissioners that the Yankees are even money choices for the first game.

One of the pallbearers was Robert Robertson, of Daytona, Fla., whose skidding car precipitated the crash in which Keech was killed.

Private services were held at the home, followed by a public service at the Ephraim Baptist church, with the pastor, Rev. L. B. Jones, officiating. Interment was in the cemetery adjacent to the church and more than 1,000 persons stood by to watch the final ceremony.

In addition to his parents, Keech is survived by his widow and a five-year-old son, Ray, Jr.

JONES DEFEATS MIKE REMBERT

Texan Forced to Limit To Win Match; Opening
Bout Draw.

In a fast and exciting match filled with plenty of skillful wrestling, Paul Jones, the Terrible Texan, defeated Mike Rembert, big West Virginia grappler, in the main event of Matchmaker Earl McGroarty's card at the city auditorium annex last night. In the opening match, John Freberg and Joe Rogacki, giant wrestlers, rolled and grunted to a draw in 90 minutes.

Bob Allen gets his name in the newspapers every year. He takes a ball club that has an average attendance below that of any other club and emerges with some nice figures over in the black. He can sing a hard-core story in a beautiful, well-modulated soprano that is very, very touching. But he is always in the black.

DRAWING MONEY.
This year he is drawing some money. He potted around, doing everything honestly, and got the Sunday baseball law for Little Rock. Not only that, but he bopped up with as fine a crop of young players as the league has seen in years. He buried the hatchet and signed Norman (Kid) Elberfeld to train them. Bob Allen will get around $100,000 for his ball players this year.

He has sold Jim McLeod, his shortstop for $15,000 and some help. He has his second baseman. He has Hugh Haslam, a third baseman who has refused $30,000 for Deb Williams, Willingham, third baseman, and Jim McLeod, shortstop, and Hugh Willingham, third baseman.

Atlanta's Enter
Columbus Tourney
Columbus, June 18.—(AP)—Golfers from Atlanta, Albany, Americus, West Point and Montgomery already have entered the annual invitation golf tournament of the Columbus Country Club, which will be held July 11-13, club officials announced tonight, and many others are expected to enter.

Charles Brumby, of Cedarhurst, was winner of the event last year.

Fields Signed.
Chicago, June 18.—(AP)—Jackie Fanning, recognized by the National Boxing Association as welterweight champion, and Farmer Joe Cooper, Terre Haute, Ind., have been signed for a 10-round bout at Mills stadium June 27.

Portsmouth, Ohio, June 18.—(AP)—Roy (Floyd) Lumpkin, star fullback at Georgia Tech last year, has signed to play professional football next fall with the Portsmouth Spartans, it became known here today.

Lumpkin joins Charles Bennett, Indiana university halfback, who played in the all-star games on the Pacific coast last winter.

"Father" Lumpkin was reported by Coach W. A. Alexander to be at his home in Dallas, Texas. Efforts to reach Lumpkin failed last night.

Lumpkin expected to return here for summer school when he left at the close of the term," Coach Alexander said. "I have heard nothing of any plans of his to play professional football."

Classmates of Lumpkin had heard nothing of his having been approached by professional football promoters and were inclined to believe the report unfounded.

GRIFF TALKS WITH SPILLER ON TELEPHONE

Player Compromise Prompted Call, and Led to Conference.

By Ralph McGill.
That widely heralded conference between counsel for Clark Griffith, the man who took it all back, and attorneys for R. J. Spiller, the man left holding the little black bag, took place Tuesday.

After conferring in whispers behind closed doors, the barristers emerged smiling and went out to lunch, voicing the formal announcement in chorus: "Nothing was accomplished; no progress to report."

Leonard Haas, attorney for the Spiller interests, later said there would be another conference today and expressed the hope that the matter could be settled thereby without the tedium of court proceedings.

GRIFFITH CALLED.
A telephone call from Mr. Griffith to Mr. Spiller Monday morning was the inspiration for the Tuesday conference, it was learned yesterday.

The Old Fox of Washington had heard of the suggestion from the demagogue that he make a settlement with Mr. Spiller, players and avoid dragging the deal into the courts.

He at once called Mr. Spiller and asked if the Cracker owner were ready to deal on that basis. Mr. Spiller indicated his willingness to consider the matter.

TOOK STEPS.
"The conference Tuesday was the outcome of Griffith's move in calling Mr. Spiller," Attorney Haas said last night. "We met with Mr. Griffith's lawyers and attorneys and decided that we hope will lead to a speedy settlement of the case. I cannot say what those steps were. We will have another conference Wednesday."

This is the first intimation the public has had of Mr. Griffith's second move to settle the case and it throws an interesting light on the dispute. The Old Fox was supposed to have "signed off" after issuing his offer last week to buy the club if Mr. Spiller would secure approval of Southern league club owners within three days.

Such a suggestion of a settlement on a player basis was enough to inspire Griffith to call Spiller by telephone indicatives at least that the Old Fox is interested in such a proposition.

SPECULATION.
Speculation as to what terms of settlement, if any, were discussed by attorneys and players in light of the censorship clamped down by counsel. However, it already has been said that R. J. Spiller is seeking relief from the case by a buy-out of Griffith's agreement and is not averse to taking a few players as bail.

Such propositions might have been the subject of the conference.

Robert F. Jones, of the firm of Jones, Evans, Powers & Jones, attorneys for the Cracker club, left yesterday for Washington.

Anxious watchers at the wicket might be reassured by the fact that Mr. Jones went to Washington bearing news, tidings, or even the complete data of an agreement designed to settle the now famous orphanage case.

But he did not. Mr. Jones went to Washington on entirely another matter—a senate hearing of some sort.

Crackers Lose
Opener, 6-1.

Playing through a dark, cloudy afternoon, apparently one jump ahead of a ducking, the Crackers lost the first of the series with the Memphis Chickens, 6 to 1, at Spiller field Tuesday.

It was a rattling good ball game for seven innings. Climax Blenheim was pitched for an hour and a half in spite of hysterical defensive play behind him. He was on the short end of a decent 2-1 score. Anything might have happened.

It did. Two were out in the eighth when the dam sea broke. Heaving, the veteran flinger now performing with the Chickens, took his bat and banged one to center field for a base. Tex James matched it.

Then Williams pulled a line drive into left field a mile a minute and the ball bounded over the foul line into the left field, or business, bleachers. Bob Parham leaped over and put his hand through the wire for it. It took a pull to get the ball out, but out it came.

TEAMS NEAR RIOT.
Heaving had scored. James had crossed the dish and Williams himself was hustling for home when Parham pegged it home. Lopez caught it on the hop and rubbed it roughly into the ribs of Williams as he hit the

Cracker 'Gate' Exceeds
1928; No Hard Times

While the Crackers were plunging along through the mud of second division fighting their way toward the clearing of first division, the public has not been exactly disinterested.

Figures made public yesterday by R. J. Spiller revealed that the "orphans" had drawn 2,500 more people at the gate than they did for the same number of games last year.

This considered in the light of gloomy reports broadcast concerning the "deplorable" state of affairs in the Southern league is illuminating. It shows that business in Atlanta is exceedingly good, there is plenty of money around town and that Atlanta is the BEST BASEBALL CITY in the league.

Who said hard times?

Handiness in Ring Impresses Fans

German Plans To Do Most of Hitting When He Enters Gotham Ring June 27.

By Walter Trumbull.

New York, June 18.—Paolino Uzcudun airplane down from Hoosick Falls to this city to attend a dinner given by some friends in his honor. It was the friends that drew him, not the meal. Meals at Hoosick Falls are perfectly satisfactory. One has only to look at the size of members of the Carey family to know that the sustenance in upper New York state must always have been good.

Another visitor here was Joe Jacobs, minority stockholder, but present head of the voting trust in Max Schmeling, Inc. Herr Bulow, majority stockholder, has been absent and not voting for some time. Certain of his votes are permitted, but not counted.

Strangely enough, Jacobs spoke highly of the state of being and mind of his boxer. He said that the other day someone asked Max how he intended to fight if Paolino refused to open up. Schmeling replied:

"Nobody ever won a fight yet by folding his arms around his head and keeping them there. You win a fight by hitting, and I intend to do the hitting."

I asked Jacobs if he considered Schmeling's left hand an asset. Joe assured me that Max had a left second to none. He said that he could both jab and hook with it.

"It isn't only that Schmeling has a terrific punch," said Jacobs. "What makes him dangerous is that punch in combination with his other qualities. One of his chief assets is speed. He is one of the fastest big men I ever saw. Max has style. He not only has the sock and the speed, but he knows how to use them. On top of that, he is a fighter, has fighting spirit and can take punishment."

"Schmeling is a good finisher. He knows what to do when an opponent is groggy. He doesn't keep away and let him recover, as many fighters do. When I speak of his fighting spirit, I am talking about him in a real bout. He takes no delight in knocking out his sparring partners, as Dempsey used to do. Max hires boxers to get him into condition and wants to get as much work out of them as possible. If he kept knocking them over, they wouldn't be much good to him."

NOT STALE.

"Any talk of his being stale is nonsense. But he naturally isn't going to let himself out to the last notch all the time. He is too intelligent to do that. If he boxed at top speed continually, especially in hot weather, he might go stale. When Schmeling gets into the ring with Paolino, he will be at his best. And that will be plenty good enough. This boy is a coming champion."

Everyone who has seen Schmeling work appears to be impressed with his speed and manner in which he handles himself. He has a powerful right hand and is a straight puncher, but many believe that Von Fichtel and Hansen could hit just as hard, or harder. If Max wins, it will be because of the reasons Jacobs gives: That he has other fighting qualities in combination with a punch.

Some believe that the German would be a more effective fighter if he did not try to copy Dempsey's weaving style. They point out that Schmeling has to come out of his wave with either hand from a stooping position, but other men can't do that. And some claim that Schmeling is essentially a counter fighter, although he car-

Jim Foxx Drops To .396 in Big 6; F. O'Doul Gains

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Although the Athletics preserved their charm over the Washington Senators, Jimmy Foxx had no hand in it, so far as safe hits were concerned, and his average slumped under .400 for the first time in weeks. Foxx rested at .396 after five hitless attempts, while Frank O'Doul, his rival on the other Philadelphia team, gained two points to .390 by getting two out of four against Boston.

Golden Leading In Shawnee Open

Shawnee-on-Delaware, Pa., June 18. (AP)—Johnny Golden, of Patterson, N. J., a member of the United States Ryder cup team, led the field with the completion of the first half of the Shawnee open golf tournament today with a total of 144 strokes for the 36 holes.

Holding second place was Harry Cooper, Buffalo, who in 1927 tied for the national open at Oakmont, only to lose the playoff to Tommy Armour.

The two leaders had a good lead on the rest of the field, the next three being tied with 150. They were Willie McFarlane, Oakridge; Joe Turnesa, Elmsford, and Billy Burke, Westport. It was a revamped course that greeted the pros this year, the length having been increased from 6,359 to 6,754 yards, and all of its rough, high clover which made a long carry from the tees necessary.

PAOLINO'S STYLE. Risko carried the fight to Schmeling, and Paolino is almost sure to do the same thing. The only manner in which the Basque knows how to fight is to cover up and shuffle towards his man until he gets within range. Then he is likely to let a punch go from any angle.

Another thing pointed out by a critic was the opinion that Paolino rarely punches while his opponent is punching. This man said that the Basque always covers while a bombardment is going on and only begins to fire himself when a lull arises. He thinks that Schmeling will keep punching without any let up. Others protest that Paolino will be crowding Max all the time and that the German's only chance to win will be by the knock-out route.

The Amateur Threat.

The amateur threat in the coming golf championship is one of the most dangerous the pros have been called on to face in many years. No one took amateur golfers seriously until Francis Ouimet crashed through in 1913, and Jerry Travers followed him two years later at Baltusrol. When Hagen won in 1919 at Niddiethian Club Evans was only a stroke away. And then Chick took the hurdles at Minikahda in 1916. This gave the amateurs three open championships in four years.

After this the amateurs subsided until Bobby Jones took up the burden in 1923, to tie in 1925, win again in 1926 and tie again in 1928. The amateur entry list for next week's golf war includes Bobby Jones, George Von Elm, George Voight, Jimmy Johnston, Eddie Driggs, Maurice McCarthy, Eddie Held, George Dawson and one or two more.

Jones, Von Elm and Voight are all dangerous, and Jimmy Johnston and Eddie Driggs can play their share of fine golf. You can usually count on Jones to be near the front of the parade, if he isn't leading. You can usually count on Von Elm to have his chance, a chance he has blown more than once on the greens. Voight is a straight-away hitter with wood and iron, and this type will carry a stout charge at Winged Foot, where they have left no great margin for wayward wandering. Many of the traps are cavernous, and the rough is full of tigers. It isn't a course that lends itself steadily to spectacular recoveries, for there are too many spots where a missed shot carries a certain penalty, where nature reaches out with a grip of steel.

Putting will not play the same part that it has played in so many past championships. The greens are none too large, and they are devoid of any tricky, baffling quality. There will be few approach shots stopping 60 or 70 feet from the cup, for if they are that far away they will usually be resting in a bed of sand. There isn't a hole on the course that can be used as a haven of rest, but there will be less nervous wear and tear upon the greens.

The medal play that Voight put on at Braburn last September would make him a vital factor, for there he was always straight and his deadly accuracy more than made up for his slight loss of distance when stacked up against the bigger hitters.

Accuracy at Winged Foot can make up for any number of yards lost through lack of uncontrolled power.

The First Ten.

The first ten in the open last June at Olympia fields included Johnny Farrell, Bobby Jones, Roland Hancock, Walter Hagen, George Von Elm, Bill Leach, Henry Cluci, Joe Turnesa, Waldo Crowder and Ed Dudley. Almost no one had mentioned at least six of these as having a chance. Most of them had not been mentioned in the first ten group. Such names as Mac Smith, Sarazen, Armour and Diegel got most of the play.

It will be the same this June. Most of the first ten groups include the names of Jones, Hagen, Horton Smith, Mac Smith, Armour, Farrell, Diegel, Turnesa, Von Elm and Sarazen.

But not all these will finish in the first ten—or the first fifteen—and there will be other names at the finish that now get almost no public comment.

Half-Strides.

"Schmeling figures Paolino a soft target." There are a number of things you might call the Basque, but one of them isn't "soft." If he is soft, so is a hydrant.

Those who counted the Giants out of the pennant party a few weeks ago have now started counting all over again.

Australia kept the Davis cup from 1914 to 1920. The United States held it from 1920 to 1926. The term of office for the Davis cup seems to be around six years, and that is about as long as it will stock around France.

It must have occurred to the Giants two or three times that they could still use a pretty fair ball player around second by the name of Frank Frisch.

Apparently the easiest way to become a star pitcher is to get some ball club to fire you or trade you for a bat bag.

"I played with a bunch the other day that were so slow," says Rube Goldberg, "that I had to go through my own foursome."

"What is the longest or shortest putt that should be conceded?" asks L. W. If the other side is doing the conceding there should be no limit.

Jack High Defeats Speedy Chestnut Oak

Widener Racer Wins at Aqueduct With Heady Riding by "Pony" McAttee.

By Orlo L. Robertson.

New York, June 18.—(AP)—Revenge is sweet, and Jack High, that speeding 3-year-old from the George D. Widener stable, believes in rubbing it in.

At least it appeared that way today, when the flashy son of John P. Grier soundly whipped Chestnut Oak, another speed marvel from the Oakridge stable, in the Shevlin stakes—a mile sprint at Aqueduct.

Herebefore this year Jack High had been forced to take a back seat to the Oakridge ace. He finished a length back of Chestnut Oak in the Withers race—won by Blue Larkspur—after a heart-breaking drive down the stretch. And today he saw the Oakridge star steal some of his thunder by setting a new track record for five and one-half furlongs at Belmont Park.

DIFFERENT STORY.

But today it was a different story. Chestnut Oak, with G. Fields in the saddle, had been made the favorite at 9 to 10, but that didn't worry "Pony" McAttee and his little chestnut mount, which battled Blue Larkspur for two-year-old supremacy last year. They let Chestnut Oak set the pace for half the distance, lunging right onto his saddle girths. Coming into the long, long lane which leads to victory at the Queens County Jockey Club plant, McAttee gave Jack High the word and three furlongs from the finish he was out in front running like a western jack rabbit.

Giving away three pounds meant nothing to the Widener sprinter as he drew away to win by three lengths in 1:35 4-5. Chestnut Oak was second, a length in front of Flag Day of the Wheatley stable. The race was worth $9,200 to the winner.

JOCKEY FAVOR BARRED.

Laverne Fator, contract rider for the Rancocas stable, leading jockey on the New York tracks, incurred the ire of the stewards when he gave Folsking, the odds-on-favorite, an unsatisfactory ride in the second race. As the result he was suspended the remainder of the Aqueduct meeting, which closes July 4. When the barrier went up there was a lot of crowding, but Fator took Folsking far out, being many lengths back of the field at one time.

E. Cebrian's Straw Vote accounted for the Hill Crest purse at Washington Park with Mrs. E. Denemark's Frances Milward second and J. J. Coughlin's Wicker Drive third.

REPUBLIC WINS.

Latonie featured a six furlong sprint with the honors going to the four-year-old Republic from the Lafolch & Yeiser stable by a length and a half. R. S. Clark's Clog Dance was second while the short end of the purse went to Typhoon from the Kenton Farms.

G. F. Jenkins' Lucky Hit, a three-year-old gelding by Fair Play, led the field to the finish wire in the six furlong feature at Fairmount Park. His time was 1:13 1-5. Running second was Ben Marshall flying the colors of Mrs. D. L. Keiffer, while third was Golden Ambur from the W. J. Hentling string.

Ascot Racing Season Opens

Ascot, Eng., June 18.—(United News).—Ascot's four-day racing program opened today, with a glowing sun overhead and a brilliant display of fashions against the bright green background of the royal enclosure lawns, but without the king and queen.

Prevented from attending by illness, the king was unable to witness one of the few Ascot victories his stable had ever secured, when his majesty's Lyne

Regis captured the Prince of Wales stakes. Lyne Regis, a 10-to-1 shot, won by a short head from Mare De St. Alary's Karabagh, with Esmond's Montclair third.

The Prince of Wales and other members of the royal family attended, including the Swedish Princess Ingrid, who was accompanied by the Duke of Connaught. Princess Ingrid made a girlish appearance in a flowered chiffon frock in pink and powder blue shoes, with a pink hat.

Major McCalmont's Mister Jinks, which ran a disappointing race in the derby, came back today to defeat a select field of derby runners in the St. James Palace stakes. Mister Jinks, paying 6 to 4, won by three lengths from Lord Dewar's Totalisator, with the Aga Khan's Attab third. J. J. Murphy's Old Orkney won the Ascot stakes by a short head from Colonel H. A. Wernher's Brown Jack, which finished first in the same race last year. Old Orkney paid 10 to 1.

The gold vase event was won by Major A. E. Phillips' Covenen, with the Aga Khan's Bulandbala second and the Carthaginian, owned by the American, A. K. Macomber, third. Covenen won by a length and a half and paid 100 to 9.

Sir Hugo Hirst's Diolite beat Lord Dewar's Lovat Scout by a neck in the Ascot Coventry stakes for two-year-olds, with Sol Joel's Polveraja third. The winner paid 7 to 1.

The absence of the king and queen reduced the pomp and ceremony of opening the races, but did not diminish the fashionable ritual or the gaiety of the occasion.

For English society, Ascot week is the most brilliant of the season. It is decreed that no dress or hat shall be worn twice. The most dazzling frock and most becoming hat is saved for Thursday, when the women contest for the title of the "best dressed" at the races.

On the same day will be held the famous Ascot gold cup race in which the American horse, Reigh Count, winner of the 1928 Kentucky Derby, is entered. The odds quoted on Reigh Count are 7 to 1.

4000 In Dixie

In his record run through Florida and Georgia, Mr. Floyd passed hundreds of Woco Pep service stations; so will you if you tour through Dixie, for there are over 4,000 such service stations dotting the highways and state roads in all Southern States. There is always a Woco Pep Motor Fuel, Tiolene 100% Super-Pennsylvania Motor Oil and POWER-Full Ford service station convenient to you through this great service network.

Floyd Makes Remarkable Record Automobile Dash!

W. O. Floyd drove the Ford shown below from St. Petersburg to Atlanta—542 miles—in the remarkable time of 10 hours and 38 minutes. That's going 51 miles an hour. He used the Twins of Power—Woco Pep Motor Fuel and Tiolene 100% Super-Pennsylvania Motor Oil—and these products made super-motor performance possible. He did not use a single added quart of Tiolene during this high speed run, and stopped only for Woco Pep Motor Fuel, using 36 1/2 gallons—17 miles to the gallon. If there ever was a conclusive demonstration of the performance of the Twins of Power—this is one.

The Twins of Power give you Super-Motor Performance through the entire Summer

You probably won't drive your car 542 miles in ten hours and a half. But you will drive it many thousands of miles this summer, and will certainly want Super-Motor Performance under all conditions.

Terrific motor heat, especially in summer—high speeds and low speeds—uphill pulls and straightaway dashes—call for the best in Motor Fuel and Motor Oil. Woco Pep, the King of Motor Fuel, will give you Super-Performance every day of the year—will give you all the Speed, the Power, the Acceleration you want—and do so with Less Carbon and Less Knock and at much less final cost. And Tiolene Motor Oil, Woco Pep's smooth running mate, can always be depended upon for super-lubrication.

Mr. Floyd's record run was solely for the purpose of putting the Twins of Power to an OUT-OF-THE-ORDINARY summer test.

When you give your car Woco Pep Motor Fuel and Tiolene Motor Oil, you are going a long way towards getting Super-Motor Performance. Today would be a good day to put these products to work for you; 65 convenient Woco Pep stations in the Metropolitan Atlanta District at your service.

Here is the record-breaking car with Mr. Floyd pointing with pride to the familiar trade-marks of the Twins of Power which performed in such a remarkable way.

Breaks Records because it Resists Heat and Outlasts Other Oils!

Tiolene Motor Oil is refined from the highest grade crude found on this continent. The best proof of its remarkable heat resistance—the lack of which causes oils to break down and thin out—is demonstrated in Mr. Floyd's run.

Picture his car going at 51 miles an hour for over ten hours. Not a single stop for oil—no oil needed at the end of the run. This is the best demonstration of Tiolene's remarkable heat resistance. That's why it will add years of miles to your car. Inasmuch as you will never put your car to such a test—think of how much more you can expect of Tiolene Motor Oil.

Most folks use Tiolene Motor Oil because they find it good for at least a thousand miles to the crank case fill.

Bob Jones Is Man To Beat in U. S. Open, Says Johnny Farrell

ATLANTA STAR PLAYS COURSE AT NEW YORK

Big Guns of Golf Find Winged Foot a Tough Layout.

By Alan J. Gould, Associated Press Sports Editor.

Winged Foot Club, (M.A.P.) Anyone strolling over the rolling, wooded and well-trapped terrain today might have caught glimpses of a smiling, slim but well-built young Irishman, clubbing his way out of the traps or the rough just to demonstrate that he is human as well as the open champion of the United States.

To Johnny Farrell, who will defend his title here next week against one of the greatest open fields of all time, Winged Foot is all spread out, but a fine test, to the four duffers accompanying him—though they may or may not admit that classification—the severely trapped and hazardous vista of trouble was terrifying.

COURSE IS READY.

Beautifully laid out in the rolling country—only 45 minutes from Broadway—Winged Foot is all spread out for the mighty battle of driver and putter, brassie and niblick, starting June 27, with the Farrells, Bobby Jones, Walter Hagen, Horton Smith, Gene Sarazen, Leo Diegel, Mac Smith and others.

Many of the stars, like Farrell, are already on the course a fortnight in advance of the tournament to leave nothing undone that will take up their games. Today for instance, there was Bobby Jones clouting 'em through the trees, Mac Smith looking for his ball in the clover, Sarazen clubbing out of a trap or Farrell shooting from behind a tree.

"Just because this happens to me in my own backyard doesn't make it any easier," smiled Farrell, "this course will prove as tough probably as any on which the open has been played in recent years. It is tougher than Olympia, where I won last year, and as difficult as Oakmont, where I lost the sand in the traps is lighter and more furrowed as it was out there in Pittsburgh two years ago. Those traps were deadly."

The traps may not be as deadly as Winged Foot, but there are more of them.

BOB IS MAN TO BEAT.

"Of course I would like to win again, who wouldn't?" asked Johnny. "But I am not kidding myself about that. This is a great field, Jones, they say, hasn't been on his game, but don't let anybody make any mistakes about Bobby. He is the man to beat. Hagen, too, will be up there, and so will Leo Diegel and Horton Smith. Both are playing wonderful golf."

"Brother Jim advised me to stay out of competition between now and next Thursday. I am doing that so that I can work on my game and take it easy, getting in all the practice I need. I'm down to fighting weight now, about 150, and should be in fine shape, physically as well as mentally."

Here Mr. Farrell inserted some remarks that apply to the golfing clan at large:

"You know, most of the mistakes golfers make are due to taking the game too seriously. They don't realize they are going to find their share of trouble anyway. It doesn't do good to worry about that or start pressing in order to make one shot do the work of two. The main thing is to take it easy, granting that the fundamentals are there."

FIT FOR BATTLE.

If there is one thing Johnny Farrell objects to it is the suggestion that he isn't rugged enough to stand the 72-hole racket.

"I'm tired of hearing that. It sounds like an alibi for me," said Johnny. "I played in enough 72-hole tournaments last year, in addition to plenty of exhibitions, to satisfy anybody I can go any length of time. I always have been able to do it, and I go the full 72 holes at top speed next week. You can count on that. Anyway, no matter how long I stay here, I want is a 'comfortable start'."

Boys, Girls Win At Grant Field

Five fast Atlanta boys and girls were rewarded for their speed at the annual Keds field day at Grant Field Tuesday afternoon.

A large number of boys and girls turned out for the meet, which was run in several heats.

The following summary shows the winners, second and third places:

Fifty-yard dash for girls under 100 pounds: First, Dorothy Smith, 15.8 seconds; second, Bertha Pratt, 16.4 Patterson avenue. S. E. third, Annie Edgar, 17.2 Courtland street, N. E.

Seventy-five-yard dash for girls under 100 pounds: First, Annie Edgar, 21.8 seconds; second, Virginia Morris, 21.8 seconds; third, Mary Smith, 22.4 seconds.

One hundred yard dash for girls under 100 pounds: First, Mary Smith, 43.2 seconds; second, Virginia Morris, 43.2 seconds; third, Annie Edgar, 43.2 seconds.

Two hundred yard dash for girls under 100 pounds: First, Mary Smith, 1:00.0 seconds; second, Virginia Morris, 1:00.0 seconds; third, Annie Edgar, 1:00.0 seconds.

Four hundred yard dash for girls under 100 pounds: First, Mary Smith, 2:00.0 seconds; second, Virginia Morris, 2:00.0 seconds; third, Annie Edgar, 2:00.0 seconds.

Eight hundred yard dash for girls under 100 pounds: First, Mary Smith, 4:00.0 seconds; second, Virginia Morris, 4:00.0 seconds; third, Annie Edgar, 4:00.0 seconds.

One mile dash for girls under 100 pounds: First, Mary Smith, 8:00.0 minutes; second, Virginia Morris, 8:00.0 minutes; third, Annie Edgar, 8:00.0 minutes.

Two mile dash for girls under 100 pounds: First, Mary Smith, 16:00.0 minutes; second, Virginia Morris, 16:00.0 minutes; third, Annie Edgar, 16:00.0 minutes.

Four mile dash for girls under 100 pounds: First, Mary Smith, 32:00.0 minutes; second, Virginia Morris, 32:00.0 minutes; third, Annie Edgar, 32:00.0 minutes.

Eight mile dash for girls under 100 pounds: First, Mary Smith, 64:00.0 minutes; second, Virginia Morris, 64:00.0 minutes; third, Annie Edgar, 64:00.0 minutes.

Twelve mile dash for girls under 100 pounds: First, Mary Smith, 96:00.0 minutes; second, Virginia Morris, 96:00.0 minutes; third, Annie Edgar, 96:00.0 minutes.

Twenty mile dash for girls under 100 pounds: First, Mary Smith, 160:00.0 minutes; second, Virginia Morris, 160:00.0 minutes; third, Annie Edgar, 160:00.0 minutes.

Twenty five mile dash for girls under 100 pounds: First, Mary Smith, 200:00.0 minutes; second, Virginia Morris, 200:00.0 minutes; third, Annie Edgar, 200:00.0 minutes.

Thirty mile dash for girls under 100 pounds: First, Mary Smith, 240:00.0 minutes; second, Virginia Morris, 240:00.0 minutes; third, Annie Edgar, 240:00.0 minutes.

Forty mile dash for girls under 100 pounds: First, Mary Smith, 320:00.0 minutes; second, Virginia Morris, 320:00.0 minutes; third, Annie Edgar, 320:00.0 minutes.

Fifty mile dash for girls under 100 pounds: First, Mary Smith, 400:00.0 minutes; second, Virginia Morris, 400:00.0 minutes; third, Annie Edgar, 400:00.0 minutes.

Spicer Is Medalist In Amateur Tourney

Moore Is Only Atlantan To Qualify At Nashville—Gunn and Hudson Fail.

morning the weather appeared to be as propitious as possible though the sun boiled down like the fury of Hades itself. Just after noon the clouds began to gather and the heat became oppressive. Rain was certain and when it came there was no half way measures. Bedraggled golfers going from the ninth green to the tenth tee formed a parade of dampened spirits until late in the afternoon. Belle Meade had changed in the space of an hour from a hard rolling layout to a soggy long test. When the qualifying rounds were all finished and the play-off was a matter of recent history the time came for S. F. Smith, and president of the Southern Golf Association, to get his just deserts for 25 years of faithful service in the cause.

A quarter of a century ago S. F. Smith took the presidency of the Southern Golf Association and just a few years after that he founded the Belle Meade Country Club. In both connections he has been an able and willing worker. Tonight the Belle Meade club presented him with a beautiful silver service at a dinner for the golfers in the tournament.

Spicer Low At Nashville.

By Eddie Brietz, Associated Press Sports Writer.

Nashville, Tenn., June 18.—(AP) Favorites ran true to the form sheets as the southern amateur championship got under way here today and the end of the U. S. qualifying rounds tonight. The so-called big shots roosting well near the top of the procession.

Emmett Spicer, of Nashville, Tennessee, carried off medalist honors, by duplicating his practice performance of yesterday and chalking up a brilliant 69 for the round.

This was four strokes better than the 73 compiled by Harold Galloway, LaGrange, Ga., who finished second. Galloway, a former pro, was reinstated as an amateur some time ago and as a result of today's corking performance stands as one of the five best players in the field. He is heavily favored to win the title now held by Watts Gun.

Two more veterans finished in a tie for third and fourth places. They were Freddy Lamproch, of New Orleans, the former Tulane football star, and Billy Bridwell, of Little Rock, three times Arkansas state champion. Each turned in a 74.

YOUNG BUSH STARS.

The best showing of any of the younger boys was made by George Bush, another New Orleans entry, whose 75 enabled him to finish in a three-cornered deadlock for fourth, fifth and sixth places with Beverly Smith, of Asheville, N. C., and George Strickfaden, of Memphis.

Scores were high as a rule, most of the boys finishing with more than 80 and 85. The late starters were badly handicapped by a thunderstorm early this afternoon. The storm was accompanied by a high wind which made low scores extremely difficult.

Spicer's fine round had to share the spotlight with some surprising golf on the part of Chastain Harris, the Memphis crack, who established what was said by golf officials here to be a world's record by scoring five strokes off par on two consecutive holes.

WORLD RECORD.

After playing so-so golf on the way out, Harris suddenly became red hot and the par five 475-yard fourteenth hole and registered an eagle three. With the gallery still buzzing, he moved to the 242-yard fifteenth and promptly sank his brassie shot for a hole in one.

This bettered by one stroke the previous record held by Jack Hutchinson, the American professional, who cut four strokes off par on two holes while playing with Bobby Jones in the British open championship at St. Andrews, Scotland, in 1921.

The eighth and ninth holes at St. Andrews are par three and four. Hutchinson played them in one and two.

Harris' ace today was the second of his career. Last year at Dallas, M. G. Massengale, of Fort Worth, added a hole in one to his list of victories in the tournament by scoring a hole in one on the 125-yard third hole at the Brookhaven Club. Despite his amazing shooting, Harris had to wait until the 1921 tournament to equal it.

The eighth and ninth holes at St. Andrews are par three and four. Hutchinson played them in one and two.

Spicer, who is better liked than ever following his sensational tour today, collected two birdies and one eagle to establish his winning round. Spicer's card follows:

Out 44 43 33—35—69

The 32 low men today will play another 18-hole round tomorrow, the winners to constitute the championship flight and the losers the second.

First round of match play in all other flights will begin tomorrow morning.

GUNN SHORT.

Young Will Gunn, one of the chief Atlanta hopes, just missed the select circle with an 81. Wes Casper, of Atlanta, who had been in the 75's as did C. W. Kittleman, the Mississippi champion, who turned in a 79.

Eight men turned in scores of 80 and at 6 o'clock played a play-off to determine the last four places in the group of 32 who tomorrow will battle it out for positions in the first and second flights.

The low 32 and their scores today, follow:

Emmett Spicer, Nashville, 69; Harold Galloway, LaGrange, Ga., 73; Billy Bridwell, Little Rock, Ark., 74; George Bush, New Orleans, 75; W. B. Moore, Nashville, 75; George Strickfaden, Memphis, 75.

COLLEGE GOLF, NATIONAL OPEN DAYS CONFLICT

Both Tournaments Set Next Week—Overlap for One Day.

By Harland Rohm.

Chicago, June 18.—Among the early season golf tournaments is the thirty-third national intercollegiate championship, which will be held at the Hollywood Club at Deal, N. J., June 24 to 28.

These dates bring into conflict with the national open, which will be held at Winged Foot, June 27 to 29, but the interference practically was unavoidable, as the open always comes in the latter part of June and it is almost imperative to hold the college championship just after the colleges close.

The tournament's primary interest is in its indication of what is to come in the national amateur championships of the future. Maurice McCarthy, of Georgetown, present intercollegiate champion, is the lad who nearly eliminated Bobby Jones in the first round of the national amateur at Minkabala two years ago. Among the others who will compete are such coming youngsters as Eugene Homans and George Dunlap, of Princeton, and Phillips Finlay, the long hitter from Harvard.

Each college has the privilege of sending six men for a team, the best four scores in the 36 holes qualifying round determining the team championship, at present held by Princeton. The first four rounds of match play for the individual championship will be 18 holes and the final 36 holes.

As June rolls along toward the middle of the month the days of golf tournaments draw nearer. Qualifying rounds for the national open held last Monday have set the stage for the "big show" at Winged Foot, Mamaroneck, N. Y., June 27 to 29, but sectional tournaments begin even before this.

In fact, the annual Shawnee open at Shawnee-on-the-Delaware, in which many of the better professionals compete, will be held from Thursday following Sunday of this week. And following quickly in its wake are the Trans-Mississippi and Chicago championships. Buffalo, N. Y., women's invitation, which always draws the feminine stars of the country.

From then on the national and sectional tournaments come fast. Dates and courses for some of the most important are:

June 18-20—Shawnee open, Shawnee-on-the-Delaware, Pa.

June 20-22—Trans-Mississippi men's amateur, Field Club, Omaha, Neb.

June 24-25—National intercollegiate, Deal, N. J.

ALLEN 'FINDS' HIS PLAYERS

funny grandstands. He's in the business and he won't lose.

This young man Deb Williams, for whom $30,000 has been refused, lives 12 miles from a railroad at a little town in Arkansas. Bob Allen sat around that town and signed him to a contract. Jim McLeod, who has been sold for $15,000 or more, was playing for a high school in Little Rock. Hugh Willingham was a semi-pro player. Joe Mecher had never been in a professional game until he was caught against the Crackers last week. All of them are under 20.

KILBERFERD COACHES.

Kid Kilberferd is worrying along with them. The kid wears spurs. He gives them the old tortoise. Goodness knows he knows the baseball racket and can teach it. They learn more than that. They get the old spirit from him. They learn how to give and take. And they know, too, that Jack Steele will hit them one if he decides to. The kid is out there on those coaching lines. A lot of ball games are won or lost right there. The managers don't pay much attention to the coaching lines. Bob Allen does.

There never has been a lot of beating of the baseball war drums about Bob Allen. I suppose he doesn't care much. He'd probably prefer not to be mentioned. Year in and year out he does the business. That's what they are all in there for, the business. And Bob Allen outsports them all.

He'll get some scents this summer and sing the Arkansas baseball blues and he will sell his ball players for a nice profit. A poll of the major leagues will show that Bob Allen has more graduates up there than any other Southern Association club.

He'll sell this crop and he'll have another one next year. He has a ready stock on that old ratty kelly and caught quite a few trains.

He's an annual wonder, Bob Allen.

AI Singer Wins.

New York, June 18.—(AP) AI Singer, Bronx lightweight, pounded out an easy decision over Augie Pisano, New York, in a 10-round bout at Dexter park arena.

N. Y. Yacht Club Takes Challenge

New York, June 18.—(AP)—Sir Thomas Lipton's challenge for a series of races for the America's cup, most coveted of all yachting trophies, has been accepted by the New York Yacht Club. The races will be held in September of next year.

Formal acceptance of the challenge, issued some time ago on behalf of Sir Thomas by the Royal Ulster Yacht Club, was contained in the following statement issued by George A. Cormack, secretary of the local organization:

"The challenge of the Royal Ulster Yacht Club for the America's cup is accepted by the New York Yacht Club. The measurement, scantling and racing rules of the New York Yacht Club will prevail. The competing yachts shall be 78 feet rating. There will be no time allowance."

The races will be sailed off Newport, R. I., best three out of five, with the first race on September 3, 1930.

'Big Bill' Wins Three Matches

London, June 18.—(United News.) "Big Bill" Tilden breezed through his first three matches in the tennis championships at Queen's Club today. He defeated the new English star, H. G. N. Lee, 6-1, 6-4, in the first round, and put out his second round opponent, E. W. Harris, 6-4, 6-3. Tilden then beat A. Fyfe, of India, 6-0, 6-1.

None of the shells were on the river for long until after 5:30 p. m., because of the extreme heat today. The morning workouts were very short.

Both crews were followed by launches from the opposing camps and interest was keen inasmuch as there probably will be no more speed trials until after the race is ended.

Neither coach would announce the time of his varsity, but Coach Ed Brown, of Harvard, said his freshmen eight crossed the two-mile line in 10 minutes 47 seconds.

Yale continued a favorite to defeat Harvard Friday, although the odds were not great.

Rene Devos Signs For Shade Battle

New York, June 18.—(AP)—Rene de Viss, Belgian challenger for the midweight title, was signed today to box Dave Shade, New York veteran, 10 rounds in the semi-final to the light heavyweight title match between Tommy Loughran and Jimmy Braddock at the Polo grounds here July 18.

THE RETURN OF TARZAN No. 9

(Metropolitan Newspaper Service)

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Scarcely had Tarzan gained the courtyard when a revolver spoke close to his head. Two muffled figures made for him, firing as they came. An instant later, the foremost lay disarmed and groaning in the dirt. The faithful Abdul's knife found the vitals of the other.

The maddened horde within the cave now rushed out in pursuit of their quarry. The dancing-girls had fled, shrieking. In the dim light Tarzan seized a sword from a fallen Arab. Now he stood, waiting for the mob coming in search of him. Suddenly he felt a light hand touch his shoulder.

A woman's voice whispered: "Quick—Miaou! Follow me." She led them up a narrow stairway. Tarzan saw the gold ornaments glimmer on her half-bared figure, the gorgeous color of her dress, and knew she was the same who had first warned him. At the stair's top they paused to listen.

"Soon they will search here," she said. "Hurry! You can drop from the window of my room to the street below." But even as she spoke a sudden cry told them they were discovered. The crowd rushed for the stairs and with a yell the foremost assailant bounded upward. "We are lost now," the girl said, simply.

KEITH'S GEORGIA.

The new bill of Keith vaudeville that is offered by the Georgia theater this week is topped by Crockett's Kentucky Mountaineers who present native songs and dances. On the same bill is Miss Zella Santley who calls herself "Little Miss Everybody." Miss Santley's impersonations of famous characters is something that will entertain everyone. There are three other acts of big-time vaudeville. The feature picture presented along with this vaudeville bill is "The Studio Murder Mystery" taken from the famous Photoplay Magazine story of the same title. Included in the cast are Neil Hamilton, Doris Hill and Warner Oland.

LOEW'S CAPITOL.

"Where East Is East," a new sound film production in which Lon Chaney, the "man of 1,000 faces," has a role widely divergent from anything he has attempted thus far in his career, is the film attraction at Loew's Capitol. The dramatic narrative is laid in the Siamese jungle, and thrilling scenes showing the capture of ferocious beasts are interspersed at several junctures. Lupe Velez and Estelle Taylor have the principal feminine roles. The stage story is headlined by Jack Sidney's Frolickers, an assembly of several specialty acts presented under the direction of a clever master of ceremonies.

HOWARD.

Billie Dove is supported in her first all-talking picture, "Careers," which is being shown at the Howard this week, by one of the most brilliant casts ever assembled for a picture. Antonio Moreno is the leading man.

METROPOLITAN

Metropolitan.

Jack Holt is heard in his second great talking role in "Father and Son" this week at the Metropolitan. Playing with him are Dorothy Revier and Mickey McMan, the latter one of the outstanding juvenile players on the screen. The picture is a drama of the love of a father for his son and the efforts of an adventuresome to come between them. "The Bee's Buzz," a hilariously funny Sennett all-talking comedy, is also on the program.

Rialto.

Princess Serene, the psychic marvel, is proving to enthusiastic Rialto audiences this week her marked and unusual mental power. The princess is a widely known figure in psychic and theatre circles, having been on the stage for 16 years. She is answering every conceivable type of question in an unbelievable manner. Let her answer your question.

Loew's Grand.

"The Goddess Girl," a sound film comedy-drama that combines the ridiculous with the melodramatic, is appearing for the first time in the cast on the screen at Loew's Grand. Charles Eaton, as an amateur sleuth who flounders through various difficulties in his hand of crime, has one of the principal roles, along with Helen Twelvetrees. The program includes current news reels and comedies.

Cameo.

That Cecil B. De Mille's latest production, "The Goddess Girl," will parallel in spectacular appeal his other screen successes, is indicated by the unusual interest shown in the picture wherever it has been exhibited. Joanne Merrell, as the "Queen of the Commandments," and "The King of Kings" wrote the original story of "The Goddess Girl." It has the unusual locale of a stage story set in the desert. The film shows today and Thursday at the Cameo.

Alamo No. 2.

What practically constitutes a picture-conundrum of the erratic course sometimes steered by the law, in its attempt to catch out its evildoers, is represented by the very satisfactory thrilling cinema attraction now playing at the Alamo No. 2 theater today. "The Goddess Girl," the body's role is taken by Heed Howes, the girl's by Josephine Dunn, with Lee Shumway sharing the mature honors with Miss Carr. Robert Hill's direction is excellent.

Empire.

Reginald Denny, most popular of the studio young stars, is seen today and Thursday at the Empire theater, corner Georgia avenue and Crew street, in "Red Hot Speed," acclaimed by critics as the fastest and peppiest picture of the year. It is Denny's first talking picture and he is found to have a delightful speaking voice. The many comic situations in which he finds himself in "Red Hot Speed" make it a riot of laughter from start to finish.

81 Theater.

Inclement theater prevented a large number of midnight frolickers from attending the picture shown last Friday night at 81 Decatur street, and Manager Tom Bailey announced Monday that a large part of the show has been held over until Friday night. It was the unanimous opinion that it was the best of the season and a "real" show will be given this week for white persons only. The Whitman Sisters are the stars in the show.

BY THE DIAL TWISTER.

Somber symphonic pictures, conveyed in Thomas' overture to "Raymond," a foreshadowing of the tale of the Man in the Iron Mask, and in Saint-Saens' ghostly "Danse Macabre," supply the classic note in the program.

Contrasting with these shadowy numbers, Victor Wagner and his concert orchestra present bright pages from Schubert's "Sketchbook" and merry modern selections.
